SMITH GIVES FINAL WORD HE WILL NOT RUN
Olivary, After Vain Effort to Get New York Governor to Reconsider, Accepts Decision.

TAMMANY UP IN AIR FOR CANDIDATE
Mayor Hackett of Albany and Col. Green Considered Favorably—Hylan Believed Out of It.

Special Wire from the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—Governor Smith has definitely and conclusively eliminated himself as a potential candidate for another term of the governorship. This action was taken yesterday at a conference between the Governor and Mayor Hackett, leader of Tammany Hall. Olivary has accepted the Governor at his word, and is leaving immediately a series of conferences with the leaders of his organization, to determine which of the other available candidates will be acceptable to the rank and file of the Tammany leaders.

The Tammany leader went to the Smith yesterday, hoping that he might be able to induce the ex-Governor to fall in with the repeated requests of the Tammany organization to run for a second term. The Governor, however, was not to be moved. He said that he was not interested in the position, and that he was not going to run. He said that he was not going to run for a second term, and that he was not going to run for a second term.

DAVIS' THREE SPEAKING DATES
By the Associated Press.
LOUCIST VALLEY, N. Y., Aug. 28.—John W. Davis remained at his home here today so as to be free to give attention to some of the addresses he will deliver next month on the first extended drive to the south of the Democratic presidential standard bearer. Whether that drive will take him to the Pacific Coast has not yet been decided. In fact, the only speaking dates that have been fixed are those at Wheeling, Labor plans to have him speak at Denver Sept. 11. It had been the original plan to have him at Denver Sept. 8, but this was changed at the request of the local party leaders.

On Sunday, Sept. 7, Davis will go to Lincoln, Neb., to visit his running mate, Gov. Charles W. Bryan. He does not intend to make an address there. It may be that he will speak at Chicago before he starts into Nebraska and Colorado.

13TH CENTURY STYLES BACK
Today's Feminine Fashions Gracefully Echo the Past.
EDINBURGH, Scotland, Aug. 28.—Feminine fashions of today are going back to the graceful styles of the thirteenth century, "the best-dressed age of the world," says Prof. W. Hughes Jones, Edinburgh University historian.

Expounding before an audience his theory on the abilities of the fashion designers of the earlier ages, Jones asserted that the styles worn today were neither outrageous nor startling, as commonly alleged, but that there was instead a grace of form and simplicity common to the fashionable 1200s.

Col. J. A. Pegg, commander of the airship, formerly resided in the town. The airship maneuvered over the State Capitol and other State buildings, then continued its trip westward.

COLORED PHOTOGRAPHS TRANSMITTED BY WIRE BY SEPARATION PROCESS

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—The American Telephone and Telegraph Company last night announced that colored photographs had been transmitted from Chicago to New York. According to the announcement, a colored picture was placed in a sending machine in Chicago and was reproduced here in less than an hour in its original colors. In the newest development of picture transmission the actual colors are not sent over the wire but the colors are separated at the point of sending and re-assembled when received, according to the announcement.

POSTMASTER TRIES TO SAVE TWO BATHTUBS; 3 DROWNED

Triple Tragedy Near Church Picnic on Little Wabash River Near Effingham, Ill.
By the Associated Press.
EFFINGHAM, Ill., Aug. 28.—Postmaster Gibson of Mason, Ill., Mr. Elson, a teacher in the Mason schools, and Eugene Burke, 14 years old, were drowned this morning when their boat, carrying two bathtubs, overturned in the Little Wabash River at the Mason Methodist picnic.

Burke and Elson were drowned when bathing and Gibson went to their assistance.

DETECTIVE KILLS ROBBER TRYING TO HOLD HIM UP

Sergeant Paul Girard, Taken by Surprise in Lonely Spot, Fires Fatal Shot Over Shoulder.

HIGHWAYMAN HAD OFFICER "COVERED"

Detective Was on Way to Investigate Holdups Near Wabash Tracks When Stopped by Thief.

Quick thinking and the "cross-body draw" enabled Detective Sergeant Paul Girard to shoot his way out of an attempted "holdup" last night, while the highwayman, after taking the veteran police officer by surprise, held a revolver pressed under Girard's left shoulder.

The highwayman, as yet unidentified, was killed by a shot Detective Girard flung over his shoulder. The bullet pierced the robber's pistol arm, the left one in this instance, and passed through the man's body near the heart.

Detective Girard, in plain clothes, was driving his own automobile over Kingshighway Northwest at 10 o'clock on his way to the police substation in Baden to confer with other officers about holdups which have occurred frequently of late near the railroad tracks in that section of the city.

When about 150 feet south of the Wabash tracks, in a new subdivision, the detective stopped his car for a moment and started to get out of the machine.

High weeds lined the roadway at that point, and he did not observe the holdup man until the latter, beside the rear door, jammed the revolver against his shoulder.

Girard was shutting off the motor. "Put 'em up, brother," the highwayman demanded.

"All right, boy, you've got me," Girard replied quietly, at the same time elevating his left arm.

"My right arm is in front of my body," Girard told a Post-Dispatch reporter today, "and without moving the arm from the shoulder to the elbow, I dropped the forearm across my body until my fingers closed on my revolver in its holster in front of me to the left, and with the butt to the right."

The man outside the car could not see the movement, I suppose. Then I whirled and let him have it."

The highwayman groaned and staggered away around the rear of the car into a clump of weeds. The detective followed and fired again, just as the highwayman pitched forward on his face. The second shot missed.

The robber was still breathing when the detective turned him over, but could not tell his name. Girard then hurried to a patrol box at McLellan avenue and Kingshighway Northwest, about three blocks away, and called an ambulance. The highwayman was dead on arrival at city hospital.

Revolver Found.
In the weeds where he fell the police found a .32 caliber revolver, loaded. Attempts are being made to trace it by its number, as a possible means of identification.

Fingerprints of the dead man were taken at the morgue today that his identity might be sought through that method also.

FAHY'S WIFE IS SOUGHT IN HUNT FOR ROUNDOUT LOOT

U. S. Deputy Marshal, Reported Seen With Her at Home, Is Questioned by Investigators.

Fahy, in Jail, Declares Charges Against Him Are Founded on Plot by "Big Tim" Murphy.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—While Federal authorities proceeded against Postal Inspector William Fahy today by questioning another Government officer, Deputy Marshal James J. Roberts, as to his association with the postal inspector accused of plotting the $2,000,000 Roundout mail robbery, Fahy, from his cell, declared the charges against him were founded on a plot by "Big Tim" Murphy and his family.

Mrs. Murphy, Fahy asserted, managed his downfall by pointing out to fellow inspectors that Fahy was in communication with James Murray, once a political figure on the West Side and now under indictment as one of the train-robber band.

"I was meeting Murray, all right, and through him I'd have found out in a short time where the money stolen from the mail train was hidden," said Fahy. "I had the case just about solved when Mrs. Murphy started peddling her tip. I was working alone and making progress and there were certain men in the service jealous enough to catch at a chance to knock me over."

"Didn't Go to Cabarets."
"This talk that I was running around to cabarets with Mrs. Erna Fontana, (wife of one of the alleged train robbers) is more dirty work. Soon after the Harvey mail robbery I took her to dinner in a restaurant several times because I was certain I could get information from her. There was always some one else along and I never took her on any wild cabaret parties."

Deputy Marshal Roberts was identified by a Federal operative today as the companion of a woman believed to have been Mrs. Fahy yesterday when she drove in her automobile to the Federal post office and carried away a package of papers. Government agents who had been waiting for Mrs. Fahy since her arrest Tuesday at Chicago, were not present when she and the man with her outdistanced pursuit in their automobile.

Roberts was absent from duty yesterday. Chief Deputy Sam Howard said. When Roberts arrived this morning, Howard and Chief Postal Inspector C. H. Clahagan of New York took him in charge. It was announced soon afterward that one of the operatives posted at the Fahy home had identified Roberts as the woman's fellow motorist.

Friend of Fahy.
Roberts is said to have been a close friend of Fahy and participant in many of the inspector's cabaret parties. Inspectors said the woman on most of the parties with Fahy was Mrs. Fontana, described as a "fascinating blonde" of 25, whose husband was one of the first arrested in the roundup of the mail robber suspects.

"We will wait for Fahy to make overtures," this official said. "We know him and his habits, his characteristics, his whims and his nature. He's smart, but he has moods. Some day he'll talk."

"We don't use third-degree methods. We have no confession from Fahy yet, but we will have one and it will be voluntary. I think."

Postal inspectors are seeking Mrs. Fahy for questioning in connection with the search being made for the Roundout robbery loot, which they believe is secreted here.

"Big Tim" Murphy's wife charged that Fahy had been obstructing any action to get her husband's papers, for which he has been eligible for four months. She said that old indictments charging complicity in the Pullman mail robbery were held as a club over Murphy on his best at Theresa and Washington avenues, and in the chase that followed shot the negro.

Girard resides at 580 S. Garfield avenue, was the head of the Home Guard in 1923 and again for a short time later, before being assigned to narcotic work.

BULGARIAN PLOWMAN UNEARTH'S ARMOR OF OLD ROMAN KNIGHT

Authorities Declare Find One of Most Interesting Archaeological Discoveries.
CORRESPONDENCE of the Associated Press.
KARAGATCH, Bulgaria, Aug. 18.—A peasant plowing near this village turned up one of the most important recent archaeological finds made in recent years. When the plow struck an obstruction the peasant found it was a slab of marble. Lifting this, the marble tomb was disclosed and, within, lay a suit of bronze armor of a Roman knight, with shield, sword, spear and several utensils, including an exquisite vase.

Director Velkoff, of the National Museum, and Popoff, an expert on Greek antiquities, estimate that the find dates back to the pre-Alexandrine period. They believe the knight may have been a dweller of a Hellenic colony on the Black Sea coast.

On the helmet, well preserved and of a high order of workmanship, were the figures of Apollo, Pallas Athene, Poseidon, Minerva and Mars. One earpiece found bore the figure of Zeus, with the trident. The other earpiece was lacking.

The helmet was silvered, and some of the white metal still adhered. The human figure that once bore the helmet and carried the weapons was absent, except in the form of a small quantity of ashes.

KILLS HUSBAND WHILE TRYING FOR A RECONCILIATION

Wife Fatally Shoots Man in Automobile in the Presence of Sister's Three Children.

ONLY WANTED TO SCARE HIM, SHE SAYS

Couple Had Been Estranged for Week After Series of Quarrels—Had Been Married 21 Years.

City detectives, summoned to the alley behind 7063 Winona avenue, at 10 o'clock last night, found a crowd assembled and the unconscious form of a man lying on the ground beside a Ford sedan. A woman stepped from the crowd as the detectives approached and handed Lieut. Aylward a revolver: "This is the gun I shot my husband with," she said, and pointed to the unconscious man.

She was Mrs. Della Niethe, 44 years old, of 7127 Tremont avenue. Her husband, Adolph E. Niethe, 44, a painter, had left her a week ago and was living with his brother, August, at the Winona avenue address. He died at city hospital at 4:30 a. m. today of bullet wounds in the chest and abdomen, without regaining consciousness.

The shooting occurred, Mrs. Niethe said, in the automobile where, in the presence of her sister's three children, she had been endeavoring to effect a reconciliation. "I only wanted to scare him," she said, in a detailed account of the shooting, which follows, substantially:

"We were married 21 years. We had been married 21 years and lived at the Tremont avenue home. With no children of their own, they raised the three children of her sister, Dorothy Benson, 17; Ruth, 15, and Adolph, 13. A few months ago Mrs. Niethe learned her husband was attentive to another woman and a series of quarrels ensued, which culminated last week, when he walked out. I followed him to a hotel and he refused to come home. I followed him to a hotel and he refused to come home. I followed him to a hotel and he refused to come home."

Yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Niethe called at her brother-in-law's home and left a letter summoning her husband to the Prosecuting Attorney's office to defend a nonstop post-charge which she had filed. Last night she came again, with the three children, and carried his 38-caliber revolver for protection to the two-mile walk from her home. She met her husband in the alley as he came out to close the windows of his machine.

Niethe suggested they go to the front seat and sat facing his wife in the rear seat, while they talked. Mrs. Niethe's nephew sat beside her husband, and the two girls beside her. "I am too sick to walk home," she said finally. "If you don't want to live with me, take me home anyhow." He refused and bitter words were exchanged.

"You can go to hell—I'm through with you," he exclaimed and she drew out the revolver.

"I didn't want to hurt him," she explained afterwards. "I only wanted to scare him. I fired two shots. I thought I fired slantwise, so as to miss him. Then he groaned and I saw I had hit him. I started to scream and so did the children."

Niethe started to leave the machine, but collapsed on the running board and fell to the ground where he was found. The children ran inside and called Niethe's brother, who telephoned the police while the wife waited in the alley.

Mrs. Niethe refused to sign a confession. A woman in the alley had shouted, "Don't sign anything!" and apparently these words were in her mind when she was questioned at Police Headquarters. "I am telling you all there is to it," she assured Lieut. Aylward, "and I will say the same thing to the Coroner."

Niethe died without making a statement, and pending the inquest. Mrs. Niethe is held without bond.

ARGUMENTS END: SENTENCE SEPT. 10

"Youth No Defense for Crime," State's Last Plea That Leopold and Loeb Go to the Gallows.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—After portions of the closing argument of Robert E. Crowe, State's Attorney, had been stricken from the record by Judge John R. Caverly, as a "cowardly and dastardly attack upon the integrity of this Court and an attempt to intimidate it," the Court took under advisement today the penalty which he must decide for Nathan F. Leopold Jr. and Richard Loeb, confessed kidnapers and murderers of 14-year-old Robert Franks.

The remarks of the court came out of a clear sky and started the crowded courtroom into silence. Crowe's law dropped and he blanched visibly under the judicial broadside.

Judge Halts Explanation.
"Your honor, I had—" he began, but the Judge interrupted him. "The State's attorney knew full well that his remarks would be heralded far and wide," said the court. "He knew, too, the court would have no patience with a reply or defend himself from criticism, except by the action he has taken."

The Judge then read a prepared statement and at its conclusion announced he would give his decision Sept. 10 at 9:30 a. m. "Unless illness prevents."

Only the defendants, the attorneys for both sides, court attaches and newspaper men will be admitted to the final scene in the famous case.

Emphasized Power of Money.
The court did not state specifically what portions of Crowe's remarks aroused his ire. It was recalled, however, that the State's Attorney had referred to possible overtures if the death penalty were not imposed and had emphasized the possible power of money in the courts and the wealth of the defendants.

Just before the argument closed Crowe also made a defense of the testimony of James Gortland, one of his staff detectives, that Leopold had expressed a hope to escape the death penalty by pleading guilty.

"before a friendly Judge." This had been denounced by Clarence B. Darrow, chief of defense counsel, as "perjury," and when Crowe defended it the Court asked the stenographer to give him a special copy of that statement.

No Comment by Attorneys.
None of the attorneys in the case would comment after the proceedings were over. Darrow, Benjamin Bachrach, the defense leaders, said it would be improper and Crowe remarked merely that he had "been talking three days."

Judge Caverly, with Mrs. Caverly, intends to go to Atlantic City, N. J., and in conclusion there weigh carefully the facts and theories brought out in the evidence and argument of the State and defense.

After the state had rested its case the court took up a brief formal hearing on the plea of guilty to kidnapping for ransom, a crime which is also punishable by death in Illinois.

Jacob Franks, father of Robert, and Capt. William Schoenmaker were sworn in as State witnesses on the kidnapping indictment. They testified at the bench, the questions and answers being inaudible over the hum of the room.

Look Smiley and Laugh.
When Leopold and Loeb were brought into the courtroom today, Leopold began a conversation with his guard. He smiled and then broke into a moment of laughter. He wore a small bow tie of baby blue, spotted with yellow design.

Leopold indicated, maintained interest in the argument of the prosecutor, perusing the report of the stenographer, from which Crowe read at length yesterday, over the conduct of Walter Bachrach, defense counsel.

GIANT WAVE IN HURRICANE NEARLY ENGULFED ARABIC

Liner With 400 Passengers Aboard Rolled Over Almost to Point of Foundering; Life Rafts Torn Off.

50 PERSONS INJURED AND 33 MADE ILL.

Ship Reaches New York Smashed on Four Decks; Men Washed Overboard and Back Again.

By Special Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—The White Star liner Arabic, first of the trans-Atlantic steamships to reach here since the terrific hurricane which for two days lashed the eastern coast all the way from Charleston to the North Atlantic, came into port at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. She had more than 50 passengers suffering from minor injuries and 33 under the surgeon's care. A huge comb struck the vessel at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon on the starboard bow, smashing the bridge and seemed almost to swallow her in the sea.

The sea also tore away four life rafts, one life boat, washed one man overboard and back again, smashed windows and ripped things loose on four decks. Practically every lifeboat on the port side was stove in.

Several tons of water rushed through the decks even into the engine room. Stokers were thrown into heaps of coal and lost their shoals and for several minutes were forced to feed the furnaces by hand. Several stokers received bad bruises, but kept at work while the ship seemed to be at the point of sinking.

Exhausted in Perilous Struggle. About 100 passengers were in the first cabin lounge when the wave struck the Arabic. All were thrown to the port side and landed on a mass of wreckage of chairs, tables and other furniture torn loose from fastenings. They were swept back and forth by the wind, several of them out on the decks, narrowly missing going over the side of the ship when tons of water rushed through.

Women and children were carried on their knees and prayed aloud, while members of the crew struggled to quiet them and shut doors. During this time Capt. W. W. Hickson kept the ship working at full speed, but the ship was almost helpless in the sea that blew at a velocity of 120 miles.

The wireless aerial was put out of commission for several hours. It did not greatly inconvenience the ship, as Capt. Hickson did not feel the situation justified any call for immediate help. Three hours later, when the sea had subsided, a new wireless aerial was installed.

The Arabic, from Hamburg, with about 400 cabin passengers, left Halifax at 2:30 o'clock Monday afternoon, having discharged 200 storage passengers there. The weather was beautiful and moderate until 10 o'clock Tuesday morning, when the barometer began to fall. About two hours later she ran into the hurricane, which began sweeping the coast since Sunday, with the wind increasing in speed.

Severe and Stronger. Handling on the bridge watching the gale that grew stronger and stronger, officers said the waves were more than 45 feet above the water line and coming from all directions. Several went higher and seemed completely to envelope the Arabic, which was getting more and more as she moved forward.

It was a westerly gale, but at times blew from all points of the compass. Just about 5 o'clock, as the Arabic was a little to the south of Nantuxet, a great wave appeared to leap out of the heaving surface of the ocean and struck the liner, which was getting more and more as she moved forward.

At that time the Arabic was about 100 miles from New York. The ship was hit on the starboard bow, smashing the bridge and seemed almost to swallow her in the sea.

Panic became general among the passengers and what members of the crew could be spared for their attention were ordered to the saloons and stairways to quell alarms.

In spite of the terrific force and the water that went rushing through the upper decks only three persons were washed outside. Two others narrowly escaped being washed into the sea.

Father's Presence of Mind. Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Dickens of La Crosse, Wis., who have been in Buenos Aires for the Y. M. C. A., but were returning from the Olympic games where Dickens had charge of the Argentine team, were sitting in a lounge room on deck with their children when the wave struck the Arabic.

The water caught Dickens and his son Frederick and swept them away from a table where they were seated on the deck. They were caught between a lifeboat and a railing. Dickens, realizing the danger he was in with his little son, held fast until the ship rolled again and he jumped back inside.

An emergency hospital was opened in the forward saloon and here those with minor injuries were treated. Those seriously injured were placed on cots wherever space was available and then taken off by the ambulance or by helicopter.

As soon as the Arabic had come out of the worst of it, and there was some sort of order, stewards distributed sandwiches and portions of whisky to those most badly drenched and shaken up. Water was poured over the heads of the drenched and the upper decks were stripped of everything and that night many had to sleep on stairways.

The Arabic is 595 feet long, 69 feet wide and 28 feet in depth. She has tonnage of 16,000 and was built in Germany in 1931. Her pre-war name was the Berlin.

Eight Persons Injured in Homecoming. During Storm. By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—Atlantic shipping paid heavy toll to the hurricane which raged over the seas from the South to the North Atlantic for the better part of the three days ending yesterday.

Besides the Arabic, the Homeric, also of the White Star Line, ran into the gale in its waning strength, but had only slight injuries and suffered damage to her superstructure. The Munson liner Munro, from Nassau, and the Orinaba, of the Ward Line, made port badly battered.

The Italian liner Giuseppe Verdi, with 155 passengers, escaped the heart of the hurricane and came through with a few smashed lifeboats and port-holes blown. All were from a few hours to a day late.

Judge Rebukes "Cowardly Attack on Court"

appeal, through swarmed into the vicinity of the Criminal Courts building. Only a few more than the capacity of the courtroom gained entrance to the building. Darrow's entry to Court.

Darrow, master pleader for the lives of the two brilliant college boys, was in court earlier than usual. He read a telegram from his mother to him by distant followers of the proceedings, and chatted with his newspaper men. Apparently he was amused by the tenor of the day's quota of correspondence.

Court attaches, tiring under the strain of the long trial and the persistent crowding of spectators, manifested a happier humor generally as they began their last day of intensive ushering.

Crowe's assistants were in court a few minutes before the session began, but the prosecutor did not enter until a few seconds before the gavel lifted his gavel convening court.

Judge Caverly appeared for the first time in many days in his black robe.

Youth No Legitimate Defense. Crowe, in opening his argument today, told the court that youth was no legitimate defense in crime. "Charles S. Darrow has talked much about mercy for youth," said Crowe. "He is a student of criminology. He has written a book on it and in that book he says that the criminal age is between 17 and 24. Your honor knows that the average is 25."

"How can we punish crime and by punishment stop it, if age is a defense?" Crowe hammered at his previous point that the motive for the case was against the youth, the kidnapping charge, and Jacob Frank, the victim's father, was sworn as the first witness to tell of his boy's disappearance.

Crowe touched upon the "friendly judge" testimony, declaring that "if Leopold did not say that, as was testified by the officer on the stand, then, your honor, his actions in this court demonstrate it."

The Court asked the stenographer to give him a special copy of Crowe's statement on this phase of the case, and the stenographer, after Darrow murmured a suggestion to which the Judge nodded assent.

Crowe concluded his argument with the words: "I am not a lawyer, but I am a father, and I am not legally executed sooner than a person sentenced to death between then and Oct. 2."

"I am going to take this case under advisement," the Judge said. "I have 1930 copies of exhibits. When I see exhibits, it is part of the testimony; it is the Bowman-Hulbert report, parts of the confession and some of the testimony that was read in secret that contained matter that was not fit for publication and should not be heard in the courtroom, and I will take me some little time to do that, and to prepare to decide this matter and render judgment in this case."

To Decide Both Cases. "I think I ought to have 10 days or so, and I will take the day at Sept. 10, and I will fix the day as September 10, at 9:30 o'clock, and I will say to those people who are here now that there will be nobody admitted in this room on that day except members of the family and Sheriff and the State's Attorney's staff. If anything occurs whereby I could not be in position or cannot be in a position to render it on that day, I will notify the press and the authorities at least three days in advance. But there will be nothing to tell me from rendering judgment on that day, gentlemen, unless it is illness."

"We will continue this case now until Sept. 10."

Mr. Benjamin Bachrach: Both cases will be heard on Sept. 10. The Court: Both cases. Judgment will be rendered in both cases at one time.

Jacob Frank Opposed to Death Penalty for Son's Slayers. By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, Aug. 25.—Jacob Frank, grief-stricken father of the kidnapped and murdered Robert Leopold, who was slain by his sons, Richard and Edward Leopold, Jr., and Richard Leopold when they were arrested and confessed, is opposed to the death penalty, he said yesterday.

"To tell the truth, I am opposed to capital punishment," said the man who has sat through the long court hearing of the case. "I demand the death penalty for the two youths and the defense seeking to have the punishment mitigated. But I feel I have no right to interfere in this case, one way or the other."

JOKE SMITH WEBS AT 69. Former Secretary of Georgian, 33, Is the Bride. By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—The pretty Tudor cottage nestling in a cluster of pine bushes at Pelham Manor, home of Mr. and Mrs. Livingston Leeds, was the scene yesterday of the wedding of former United States Senator Hoke Smith of Georgia, and his former secretary, Miss Made Crawford, who was employed by Smith during his last term at Washington.

The elderly Georgian, who is 69, and his bride, whose age was given by her husband as 33, were married by the Rev. Dr. Robert MacGregor of the North Avenue Presbyterian Church in Pelham Manor, which church the Leeds, sister and brother-in-law of the bride, attend. The couple were unattended save for the flower girl, Dorothy Leeds. The bride's only bridesmaid was a string of pearls, the gift of the bridegroom. The couple left for a trip through Canada.

REALTY MAN KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Frank J. Murphy, 78, Was Unable to Stop Machine on Hill; Two Others Escape.

Frank J. Murphy, 78 years old, a real estate dealer, of 5642 Heisen Avenue, West Walnut Manor, was killed yesterday afternoon when an automobile in which he was riding on the Brennan road near Murphy, Jefferson County, backed down a hill and overturned. Murphy was killed instantly. The car and his neck was broken.

In the machine with Murphy was Joseph Burk, 4315 Sacramento Avenue, a Fire Department Lieutenant, and the latter's 12-year-old daughter, Fannie. The automobile stalled while going up the hill and rolled backward. Burk being unable to stop it before it went into the ditch. Burk and his daughter saved themselves by jumping just as the car went over. A Coroner's verdict of accident was returned.

Murphy had been visiting a brother and a sister, the latter the keeper of the general store at Murphy, and yesterday he took a ride over Jefferson County with Burk, who two days ago started on his vacation. The party was returning to Murphy at the time of the accident.

Besides the brother and sister, Murphy is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Frances McKeever, and a son, George Ford Murphy, with whom he lived. The funeral will be held at 3 p. m. Friday from the residence to Corpus Christi Church. Burial will be in Bellefontaine Cemetery.

lost in an obvious place as a safety deposit box," he said. "But we are not overlooking any bet."

The inspectors preserved silence as to methods by which evidence of alleged complicity in the Rondout robbery had been obtained against Fahy. They would not verify printed reports that $14,000 of the loot had been traced to Fahy, as his share of the proceeds of the holdup and that Fahy's downfall had been brought about through tapping the wires of his telephone.

Clara, who was sent here to work on the case against Fahy, denied that postal inspectors ever had tapped wires.

"Big Tim" Murphy Becomes Hero to Prisoners. Special to the Post-Dispatch. LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Aug. 25.—Awaiting questioning by postal inspectors, "Big Tim" Murphy became a hero to prisoners in the Federal Penitentiary here today.

Murphy, once a political and labor leader in Chicago, maintained his characteristic calmness when his fellow prisoners slapped him on the back and to all questions he showed the familiar "grin smile" for which he is noted.

New Says He Has Information Fahy Is Guilty of Wrong. By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—Postmaster-General New declared today that information at his possession forced him to the conclusion that Postoffice Inspector William F. Fahy, now held for alleged complicity in the $2,000,000 mail robbery at Rondout, N. Y., last June, was guilty of wrong doing.

"When this robbery was first reported to me," said New, in a formal statement, "I called into conference Chief Inspector Glavin and other attaches of his office. It was my belief, as well as the inspector's, that this robbery was pulled off as a result of information furnished by some one who had intimate knowledge of postoffice matters and who was thoroughly acquainted with the movements of the trains, their arrival and departure. Every phase of the situation was gone over very carefully and every detail of the robbery taken into consideration. The inspectors were then put to work in the case, and have been steadily at it night and day, keeping me informed of each bit of information uncovered by them. Suspicion pointed to Fahy as being implicated in the robbery."

FLIGHT TO LABRADOR NOW SET FOR FRIDAY

Fringe of Violent Storm at Sea Sweeps Davis Straits—Naval Vessels Seek Harbor.

By the Associated Press.

U. S. S. RICHMOND, AT SEA.
TICKLE, Labrador, Aug. 28.—The fringe of the violent storm which has been traveling northward from the Atlantic for several days, and warnings, which caused the postponement of the American aviators' flight here from Ivittut
Greenland, struck the Labrador Coast shortly after the arrival of the Richmond here yesterday.

There were heavy winds, accompanied by rain, throughout the evening and evening, but the local forecast prepared by an army aerologist indicated clearing weather later in the week, possibly permitting the aviators to carry out their desire of leaving Ivittut tomorrow morning. Rear Admiral Magruder, upon the approach of the storm, informed the vessels of the naval patrol that the flight, set for this morning, had been put off until Friday at the earliest.

New Engines Installed.
During their stay at Ivittut the aviators have taken the opportunity to install new engines and put the planes in the best of condition for the 572-mile trip.

Meanwhile the Richmond has put in at Ice-Tickle, a few miles from Indian Harbor. The destroyers Lawrence, Charles Ausburn and McFarland are anchored at the latter place, but Ice-Tickle is considered a better harbor for a large vessel.

Davis Straits are still foggy and some icebergs are floating. The Richmond passed a huge ice mountain early this morning.

Commented for Rescue.

Lieut. Lowell H. Smith, commander of the world flight, invited Rear Admiral Magruder to the work of installing new engines
in the army planes was proceeding favorably although hampered somewhat by the rain Monday.
Work on the message stated, probably would be completed by night and the aviators were planning to hop off for Indian Harbor Friday.

A further message stated that the flyers expected to hop off from Indian Harbor the day after their arrival there.

Rear Admiral Magruder is receiving many messages of commendation for his rescue of Lieut.
Kaiser, the Italian aviator who flew his plane with the Americans from Reykjavik but was forced to descend in the North Atlantic.

COUNT WINS LEGAL PLEA

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—The motion picture Count Gosta Morner to have set aside service of summons and complaint in the separation suits instituted against him by Countess Morner, formerly Peggy Hopkins Joyce, was granted today by Supreme Court Justice Cottle.

Karl Vendel, first Swedish Vice Consul in New York, was censured by Justice Cottle for his part in aiding Morner to avoid being served personally with the papers in the case. The Count was Vendel's guest at the Yale Club when others made an effort to serve the papers while Morner was away.
Justice Cottle said Vendel gave reason for turning the papers over to Morner's lawyer instead of himself. "Vice Consuls and representatives of foreign governments," said the court, "having special prerogatives by reason of their offices, should not, in their own name, do in this case, interfere with judicial processes of the courts."

Titled English Couple at "Outs"

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Aug. 28.—The Duke and Duchess of Westminster, who have been known as "Margery"
to the world of psychic students, could induce phenomena that would warrant award to her of the Scientific American's prize for such genuine feats, ended last night with results said to be both positive and negative.

In a big, black box, fashioned out of inch-thick oak, in the manner of an old-time pillory, the medium was said to have failed to give proof. In another box, somewhat similar but with more freedom, results were positive, bells being rung and messages transmitted, it was said.

The tests, still incomplete, have resolved into a trial of the two types of boxes. The oak box is the property of Harry Houdini, the magician, who is a member of the committee. It is understood, however, that the committee has not accepted this box as an official test;
because the committee as a whole has not had an opportunity to examine it. The second box is the committee's cabinet, evolved for such tests, with the medium under padding restriction, the bells confined beyond ordinary reach and safeguards provided to prevent fraud.

The tests were understood to have developed an uninterrupted series of positive manifestations,
including the appearance of lights, whistling, chairs moving across the room and a pigeon whirling through a room, in which doors and windows were locked, until Houdini brought his box.

Members of the committee failed to agree that the new box would develop a conclusive test, and Mrs.
Crandon said today that a statement was signed by all participating in the recent sitting that "there is no assurance that ectoplasm can be made to work through oak an inch thick." She would not comment on the matter further, beyond denial of a published report that the tests were continuing, and that she was confident she had already proved the genuineness of the phenomena for which she is the medium.

J. M. Bird, Secretary of Test Committee, Resigns.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—The resignation of J. Malcolm Bird, magician, editor of the Scientific American, from the Prize Award Committee which has been investigating the psychic powers of Mrs. Le Roi G. ("Margery") Crandon, at Boston, was confirmed today by C. D. Munn, publisher of the magazine and donor of the prize.

Bird was secretary of the committee. His resignation, while voluntary, came as a climax to differences of opinion as to results of the "Margery" seances, said Munn.
He will continue as managing editor of the Scientific American, and will continue personally to set forth the developments in the magician's search for genuine psychic media, endowed with bona fide powers to induce ectoplasmic phenomena.

The young man, taken to task admitted he had a wife and child, but asserted he was separated from them. He reiterated his vows of friendship and asked Miss Stanley to move to St. Louis, where, he said, relatives would not intrude
in their affairs.

The author drove up to the Pig-gott avenue house yesterday morning and Miss Stanley bundled up her apparel and other possessions and put them in his car. The two were about to drive away, when the aunt called the man to account and warned him against taking the girl across the river, also reminding him he had lied again when he denied he was still living with his wife.

The disillusioned girl removed her things from the car, and, going up to her room, emptied a bottle of poison. The man confessed his deception and drove away. Neighbors on North Fifth street, reported he arrived home greatly agitated, put his wife and child in the car and then drove away. He has not been seen since.

DEATH PENALTY TO BE ASKED FOR ALLEGED ATTACK ON GIRL

Trial of Two Men Charged With Criminal Assault Starts in Circuit Court.

The trial of Joe Burleson and Sam Jones, alleged associates of Cuckoo gangsters, on charges of criminally assaulting Ruby Gray, a 12-year-old school girl, began today before Circuit Judge Taylor. Assistant Circuit Attorney Bowcock, conducting the prosecution, announced he would ask for the death penalty.

Burleson and Jones were arrested May 7 and later indicted on the complaint of the girl, who said one of the men, whom she identified as Burleson, lured her from a carnival at Seventh street and Chouteau avenue, to a nearby house, where he and Jones and another man named Thomas Darmody attacked her. Darmody has not been arrested.

On the stand today the girl testified that on May 7 she played truant from school to attend the carnival. Early in the afternoon, she said, Burleson accosted her and asked her to drink wine with him. Upon her refusal, she related, he led her to a house operated by a woman known as Mary Anderson, at 516 South Eighth street, where Jones and Darmody were waiting. Following her release, she returned to the carnival and sought a policeman, who arrested Burleson and Jones.

Improvements at Veterans' Hospital.
New construction and repairs to cost $20,000, are to be carried out within the next few months at United States Veterans' Hospital No. 32, near Jefferson Barracks. A construction engineer, sent from Washington, is now making the plans for the work.

40 PERSONS DIE WHEN WRECKERS DITCH FAST TRAIN

Many Others Injured in Derailment of Odessa-Moscow Express, Coaches
Catching Fire.

By the Associated Press.
ODESSA, Aug. 24.—Forty passengers were killed and many were injured when the express from Odessa to Moscow, which left here last night, was derailed, 200 miles from here. The accident was caused by a break in the track, which apparently had been purposely torn from its bed by unidentified persons.

The train was going at high speed when the accident occurred. The engine was hurled on to its side and its boiler exploded, causing a fire which spread rapidly to the coaches of the train. Relief trains were dispatched from the nearest station and from Odessa.

PRODUCE DEALERS HELD ON MAIL FRAUD CHARGE

Firm Alleged to Have Failed to Pay for Poultry and Eggs

Harry E. Bloch and Nat Goldmann, proprietors of the Bloch Commission Co., 113 Lucas avenue, at a hearing before United States Commissioner Atkins yesterday, were bound over to the Federal grand jury on charges of using the mails to defraud. Bond was fixed at $1500 each.

The Bloch concern, it is alleged, recently sent out circular letters to farmers and poultry dealers offering to pay a half cent per pound above the market price for poultry and a cent per dozen above market price for eggs.

Several witnesses testified they had shipped poultry and eggs to the firm but had received no money for their produce and no replies to repeated letters of inquiry concerning it. N. Komo of Oermann, Mo., testified the Bloch firm owed him $140 for poultry and eggs shipped in response to the advertising matter, and Louis Depping of Farber, Mo., claimed $14.30 as due him for produce consigned on June 13.

LAW AND ORDER LEAGUE
DENIED PRO FORMA DECREE

Special Investigator Doubtful
Whether Political Organization
Had Authority for Plan.

Petition of the Law and Order League for a pro forma decree of incorporation was denied today by Circuit Judge Calhoun when officers of the league failed to appear at a hearing on the report of former Judge W. M. Kinsey, who recommended the petition be denied.

Kinsey had been appointed as a special referee to investigate the purpose of the league. He reported he found the league to be almost entirely political and doubted whether an organization of that character could organize under the statute authorizing the issuance of a pro forma decree.

Officers of the league were notified to appear today for questioning. Kinsey wanted information regarding a sample ballot issued by the league during the recent primary campaign. R. E. Foster, a fur dealer, is president of the league.

TWO DRUGGISTS CHARGED WITH PRACTICING WITHOUT LICENSES

Warrants charging two proprietors of drug stores with practicing pharmacy without licenses were issued yesterday by the prosecuting attorney on complaint of H. W. Reuter, president of the State Board of Pharmacy.

Reuter reported he visited the store of Erwin Kring, 33 years old, at 2323 South Thirteenth street, and had a threat of a license order filed. He noticed a certificate of registration on the wall, made out to Erwin Kring, and, upon inquiry, was told by Kring that he had been a pharmacist for 23 years. Reuter said, closer inspection, according to Reuter, revealed that the certificate had been issued to Dr. Elbert V. King, 721 Olive street, and had been altered.

At the store of H. C. Eggers, 1529 South Jefferson avenue, no certificate was displayed and Reuter said he had never obtained one. Reuter said.

Driver for Laundry Robbed.
Henry Helmsleider, 35 years old, of 1130 Kentucky avenue, a driver for the New Way Laundry, 4300 Pinney avenue, was making deliveries at 4:15 p. m. yesterday when at West Delta place and Newstead avenue a closed car crowded his truck to the curb and two armed men jumped on his running board. After taking $47 from him they forced him from the truck and drove it away, followed by the other machine. The truck was found abandoned at Fairfax and Newstead avenues.

Former Grand Trunk Head Dead.
The late Paul J. Chamberlain, 78 years old, former president of the Grand Trunk Railway, died yesterday after a long illness. He had been a resident of this city for a year, coming here on his retirement from active duties.

OUTDOOR CHURCH SERVICES

University Presbyterian Members to Meet Sunday at Farm.

An outdoor service under the trees on the farm of the University Presbyterian Church near Manchester, Mo., will be held at 4 p. m. Sunday. Sandwiches and cold drinks will be served by the women of the church.

Church members and their friends have been asked by the Rev. Dr. James Hardin Smith, pastor, to assemble at the church, 5166 Delmar boulevard, at 2 p. m. for the drive to the farm. Those in automobiles are expected to take as many of the others as possible. The farm is up a road to the south, bearing the sign "Private Road—Keep Out," about a mile east of Manchester. Any of the general public desiring to attend the services are invited by Dr. Smith to drive up the "private road" to the meeting place.

You know that a Victrola instrument will be "just right" in any room!

There's no guesswork, and it's better to know you're right than only to hope you are. Experience counts. When you buy an instrument for beauty as well as for usefulness it's worth something to know that the beauty is more than skin deep. There is quality of design as well as quality performance in every instrument that bears the Victor trade-mark, and there is one that is exactly what you want.

ANTI-KU KLUX PLANK READY FOR DEMOCRATS

State Convention to Be Asked to Denounce the Order by St. Louis Leaders.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Aug. 28.—An anti-klan plank, similar to that adopted this week by the Democratic convention in Ohio, will be presented by St. Louis Democratic leaders to the State Democratic platform convention on Sept. 5, it was learned today, following a conference here last night by Dr. A. W. Nelson, Democratic nominee for Governor, with a few of his advisers.

Nelson conferred here with several Democratic leaders, among them Congressman Hawes of St. Louis and Chief Justice Graves of the Missouri Supreme Court. Those attending the conference declined to comment on the discussion, but it was learned that it largely concerned the platform. Hawes has been active in denunciation of the klan and he is expected to actively lead a fight to have an anti-klan plank inserted in the Democratic platform in Missouri.

Following the conference it was learned that St. Louis leaders planned to submit an anti-klan plank when the Democratic platform convention opens. This plank it was said, will follow the utterances of John W. Davis, Democratic presidential nominee, against the Klan in his recent speech at Sea Girt, N. J., which were adopted by the Ohio Democrats in their platform.

The plank adopted in Ohio was as follows:

"Whereas any organization, no matter what it chooses to be called, whether Ku Klux Klan or any other name, raises the standard of racial or religious belief as a test of fitness for public office it does violence to the spirit of American institutions and must be condemned by all who believe in American ideals."

KLAN NOT ISSUE, SAYS BUTLER

Chairman Declares It Is Only Being Discussed in Maine.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—Arriving in New York today for a series of conferences, William M. Butler, chairman of the Republican National Committee, said the Ku Klux Klan was not an issue in Maine.

"The Klan is being discussed," he said, "but it is not an issue."

Asked if, as reported from Washington today, the party speakers and candidates henceforth would avoid all reference to the klan, Butler said: "I have no desire to discuss speeches of issues. My interest in this campaign is in the works—the organization. Our candidates and speakers will discuss the issues."

H. W. Massingham, Editor, Dies.

By the Associated Press.

FROME, England, Aug. 28.—Henry William Massingham, 64 years old, editor and writer, died at Melles, near here, today.

PROFESSOR SIFTS TRAIN ROBBERY IN LABORATORY

Berkeley Tutor Outrivals Fiction in Work on Holdup and Triple Murder Which Baffled Detectives.

GETS CLEWS FROM PAIR OF OVERALLS

Deductions After Microscopic Examination Lead Directly to Manhunt for Trio Who Fleed After Crime.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. (Copyright, 1936.)
REDDING, Cal., Aug. 28.—Heavily armed Sheriff's posse are combing the rugged mountain country north of here in search of three alleged train robbers and murderers. They may bring to a spectacular climax a drama of scientific criminology in which a humble Berkeley College professor has "out-Sherlocked" Sheriff Holmes.

The trio being sought by a coroner of Sheriff's posse are the desperate D'Astremont brothers, wanted for the holdup of a Southern Pacific passenger train and the wanton murder of three railroad employees near the California-Oregon line last September and who since that time have eluded capture in a 20,000-mile chase that has led through three countries.

Following the usual precept of criminal custom, the three brothers are believed to have returned to the scene of their crime a few days ago and now to be hiding in the southern fringes of the Klamath Forest reserves 40 miles north of here. The manhunt being waged for them is intensive.

Picks Clues in Laboratory. Should the pursuing posse be successful, the three murderers might and have safely behind the bars, they will owe their downfall to a University of California tutor who, when all others failed and without moving from the narrow confines of his laboratory, 200 miles away, picked unerring clues regarding their identity, seemingly out of thin air.

The central figure in this modern day detective tale is Prof. E. C. Heinrichs, chemist, pharmacist, mineralogist and instructor in scientific crime detection at the University of California. In all his life Prof. Heinrichs never carried a pistol, wore a police badge or actually participated in a criminal manhunt, except by theoretical long distance.

How the college professor took a pair of overalls discarded near the scene of the crime and from a few pinches of dust, some weed chips and other insignificant bits found in the pockets not only furnished the law officers with a description of the wearer but actually established his identity and connected him with the crime, was revealed here by railroad special agents participating in the D'Astremont manhunt.

Saves Innocent Man. In the same processes it also developed that he saved an innocent man, an ex-convict who had been taken into custody and against whom, until Prof. Heinrichs disproved it, there was much circumstantial evidence.

A pair of gray overalls used in exploding a charge of dynamite under an express car, were the only clues left behind by the robbers. After every square inch of the overalls had been minutely searched for clues, they were sent to Prof. Heinrichs at Berkeley. He, however, before the batteries had been traced to a garage several miles away and an ex-convict was a mechanic there when the overalls happened to fit, had been arrested.

Under the discerning eye of the college professor, directed through a microscope, the overalls were not so elusive. The first discovery made by Prof. Heinrichs was that the supposed grease was not grease at all but spruce fir pitch with which the wearer had come in contact at some lumber camp.

Next the professor's microscope searched the pockets of the overalls thoroughly. While to a casual observer they contained no clues worth while, to a scientific observer they yielded a wealth of information. Under a microscopic microscope, which magnified 100 times, insignificant pinches of dust revealed themselves into bits of Douglas fir needles, finger nail cuttings, tiny pine chips, bits of spruce and red soil, common only to the portion of Western Oregon.

He found caught on the bottom of the discarded garb, when put under a microscope, was found to be dark brown. Finally Prof. Heinrichs advised the law officers of his findings.

The Deductions. The man whose the overalls were a left-handed, white-haired, brown-haired, probably disheveled, of medium height, rather

REDDING, Cal., Aug. 28.— Heavily armed Sheriff's posse are combing the rugged mountain country north of here in search of three alleged train robbers and murderers. They may bring to a spectacular climax a drama of scientific criminology in which a Berkeley College professor has "out-Sherlocked" Sherlock Holmes.

The trio being sought by a cordon of Sheriff's posse are the separate D'Autremont brothers, wanted for the holdup of a Southwest Pacific passenger train and the murder of three railroad employees near the California-Oregon line last September and who also that time have eluded capture in a 20,000-mile chase that led through three countries.

Following the usual precept of criminal custom the three brothers are believed to have returned to the scene of their crime a few days ago and now to be hiding in the southern fringes of the Klamath Forest reserves 40 miles west of here. The manhunt being made for them is intensive.

Clews in Laboratory.
Should the pursuing posse be successful, the three murderers might be landed safely behind the bars they owe their downfall to a University of California labor who, when all others failed and without moving from the narrow confines of his laboratory, resolved away, picked unerring clews regarding their identity, seemingly out of thin air.

The central figure in this modern day detective tale is Prof. E.
J. Heinrichs, chemist, pharmacist, microanalyst and instructor in scientific crime detection at the University of California. In all his life Prof. Heinrichs never carried a pistol, wore a police badge or officially participated in a criminal manhunt except by theoretical long distance.

How the college professor took a pair of overalls discarded near the scene of the crime and from a few pinches of dust, some wood chips and other insignificant bits found in the pockets not only furnished the law officers with a description of the wearer but actually established his identity and connected him with the crime, was revealed here by railroad special agents participating in the D'Autremont manhunt.

In the same processes it also develops that he saved an immortal man, an ex-convict who had been taken into custody and confined whom, until Prof. Hein-richs discovered it, there was much circumstantial evidence.

A pair of greasy overalls with electric batteries used in exploding a charge of dynamite under an express car, were the only clews left behind by the robbers.
After every square inch of the overalls had been fruitlessly searched for clews, they were sent to Prof. Heinrichs at Berkeley.

Under the discerning eye of the college professor, directed through a microscope, the overalls were not so clews. The first discovery made by Prof. Heinrichs was that the supposed grease was not grease at all but spruce fire pitch with which the wearer had come in contact at some lumber camp.

Next the professor-chimistologist searched the pockets of the overalls thoroughly. While to a casual observer they contained no clews worth while, to a scientific observer they offered a wealth of information. Under a stereoscopic lens, insignificant pinches of dust revealed themselves into bits of Oregon fir needles, finger nail chips, tiny pine chips, bits of brown and red soil, common only to the portion of Western Oregon.

He found caught on the bottom of the discarded garb, when put under a microscope, was found to be dark brown. Finally Prof.
Heinrichs advised the law officers of his findings.

His Deductions.
The man who wore the overalls was a left-handed, white lumberman, brown-haired, probably of medium height, rather

or stockily built, fastidious, about 25 years old and he comes from a certain town in Western Oregon," said the professor.

From the batteries found near the robbery, it also developed that the finger-prints, which through comparison, divulged the identity of a young man with a criminal record from the same town in Western Oregon. Officers investigating further found that the college professor's description of the former owner of the overalls and the man whose finger-prints were discovered, tallied exactly.

From these clews, unearthed as it were by Prof. Heinrichs, where no clews were deemed by veteran manhunters to exist, officers of the law shortly established facts which almost irrefutably linked one of the D'Autremonts and later his two brothers with the triple murder and train robbery.

How He Reasoned.
The fact that the suspect was left-handed was established by the college professor by particles of wood chips found only in the right-hand pocket of the overalls. A left-handed lumberjack he explained to officers always stands on the right side toward a tree
when wielding an ax and it was possible for chips to call only in the right pocket.

The same line of deduction led to characterization of the man as fastidious. Only a man who was extremely careful of his personal appearance pared his finger nails as thin as those found under the microscope in the pinches of pocket dust.

The best substantiation of the

Berkeley College professor's deductions is the thousands of miles the D'Autremonts already have fled in their efforts to evade arrest and the boat reported made by them at several places that they never would be taken alive.

INDIANS HAD FIRST LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Ethnologist of Smithsonian Institution Studies Tradition of Iroquois Tribe.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—The Iroquois Indians had the League of Nations in 1790, long before the American League of Nations was organized. That is what J. M. B. Hewitt of the Bureau of American Ethnology of the Smithsonian Institution has discovered through research of the "League of the Five Nations," which held sway in the New York country when America was young. He has just returned to Washington from further investigation of the organization, of which a remnant exists today in the province of Ontario and the State of New York.

As the Indians of old left a written record, Hewitt had to depend on tradition, as embodied in ritual, for his main source of information. So far as the present is concerned, 1888 Indians at Bradford, in Ontario, keep alive the league, under arrangement with the Canadian Government, and three small reservations in New York State more or less closely follow the old league regulations.

For Preservation of Peace. These are the Onondaga reservation near Syracuse, with 845 Indians; the Tonawanda reservation near Akron, with 539 Indians; and the Tuscarora reservation near Lewiston, with 374 Indians.

The preservation of peace was the objective of the League of the Five Nations. Women occupied a prominent place in its structure, and naturalization, the referendum, initiative and recall had a place in the make-up.

The Mohawk, the Onondaga, the Oneida, Cayuga, and the Seneca tribes, of Iroquois blood, established the league, with a mature constitution, and planned to bring into the federation, in time, all known tribes of men and allies. Desanawida, the prophet statesman of the Iroquois, was its leading spirit. Hiawatha (not the personage of that name immortalized by the poet Longfellow); Atotapbo, a wizard who at first bitterly opposed the plan, and Digoonassen, a noted chieftain, urged the peaceful revolution. This was the more remarkable, Hewitt points out, in an age when fighting was fashionable.

Had "World Court." Too. The League of the Five Nations came historically into being between 1550 and 1570. It aimed at stamping out the bloody feud system, which was killing off the bravest Indians of the nation, and eradicating whatever cannibalism existed. So powerful had the league become by 1701, that it was able to turn over to the King of England in trust a territory 800 miles long and 160 miles wide. Before asking others to disarm, the league disarmed itself. It was badly jarred by the War of the Revolution, Hewitt finds, but it has survived in a measure until today. The Indian league had its "World Court" idea, too, for Hewitt points out that "the federal council, sitting as a court without a jury, heard and determined cases in accordance with established rules and principles of procedure, and with precedent."

WOMEN BARBERS WANT UNION

Trade in "Bobs" May Make Major Revue Former Rolling.

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 28.—The outstanding question to confront delegates to the convention of the Journeymen Barbers' International Union when they assemble here Sept. 9 is shall women be admitted to the ranks?

For 15 years women have sought to become members, according to Jacob Fischer, secretary, but the vote has always been against them. But with women customers flocking into the shops for bobs, union officials admit that a decision will be more difficult at this convention.

CUTS GASOLINE PRICE 1 CENT

Jefferson City Company Acts After Barrett States View.

JEFFERSON CITY, Aug. 28.—Following Attorney-General Barrett's statement yesterday that gasoline consumers or independent dealers could bring the price of gasoline down to 12 cents a gallon in Missouri by buying carload lots from independent refineries, selling it at 7 1/2 to 8 cents a gallon, the Heisterling Motor Co., of Jefferson City, today reduced the price on gasoline 1 cent a gallon, to 11.2 cents a gallon at the filling station pump, plus 1 cent city tax.

The Attorney-General's Department has received a telegram from the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, asking for a conference with the Department on the afternoon of Sept. 9, one day in advance of a hearing here on Sept. 10 in the State's inquiry to determine whether the Standard of Indiana and other oil companies have violated the Missouri antitrust law. The inquiry has been in progress here at intervals since Aug. 11.

RELIEF POST FOR PASTOR

The Rev. L. B. Arvin to Direct Near East Work in Missouri. The Rev. L. B. Arvin, pastor of the Water Tower Baptist Church and former field secretary of the Missouri Baptist Sanitarium, has been appointed director for the Near East Relief for Eastern Missouri. He will assume his new post Sept. 1.

The Rev. Mr. Arvin has held pastorates in Indiana, Kentucky and Missouri and also has conducted many evangelistic meetings during the 20 years in the ministry. His work for the Baptist Sanitarium took him over the entire State. Since March 1, the St. Louis office of the Near East Relief has been in charge of Carl S. Van Winkle, who was sent here to reorganize the work and select a permanent director.

DEMAND FOR FURS SENDS HUNTERS, FARTHER NORTH

Felt Seekers Push Northward. Year by Year, to Increase Supply.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Aug. 28.—The hunt for fur is extending northward year by year, according to officials of the great fur companies operating from this city to the Labrador coast and into Hudson Bay. Each season, they say, new posts are opened to widen the field of the hunt under northerly into the Arctic.

The Hudson's Bay Co. and Revillon Freres, the "old" company and the "new," already have dispatched their steamers on their annual tour of the northern ports. All the way up the coast of Labrador and into Hudson Bay are scattered fur posts which, in many cases, have been carrying on business with the natives for years. Gradually, company heads say, the operations have extended northward, the Hudson's Bay Co. especially seeking out new fur fields.

Two years ago the Hudson Bay Co. undertook to establish a herd of reindeer in Baffinland, with a view to augmenting the meat supply of the region. The company was encouraged in its experiment by the success of a similar project in Alaska. Instead of meeting with the success achieved with the reindeer in Alaska, the Hudson Bay Co. met with part failure, and the herd now is small.

CITIZENS APPEALED TO IN BUS PERMIT FIGHT

Residents of Lindenwood-Gratiot District Circularized—Hearing Tomorrow.

Campaigning for support of residents of sections in which the nonpetting People's Motor Bus Co. and St. Louis Bus Co. are seeking permits to establish lines, has reached the stage of intensive circularizing
in the Lindenwood-Gratiot district, one of the chief localities of contention.

The People's Motor Bus Co. has applied to the Board of Public Service for six additional routes, and the St. Louis Bus Co. is seeking five, three of them virtually the same as those sought by the opposing company. The matter comes up for public hearing tomorrow at city hall, and the desire of residents of sections where routes are sought is always given weight by the board. Knowing this, representatives of the two companies have drawn their battle lines and are ready for the struggle.

Residents in Fight First.
The Gratiot-Lindenwood Improvement Association, espousing
the cause of the People's Mo-torbus Co., entered the circular field first, and an open letter, "Don't Be Fooled," warned residents of the 20-year refusal of the United Railways Co. to supply service and gave the opinion that the St. Louis Bus Co., a U. R. subsidiary, would be no better.

"Don't be fooled by talk of the reorganization committee of the United Railways giving you a new deal," the warning adds. "It is the same old wolf in sheep's clothing and if they can continue to monopolize the transportation service of the city of St. Louis you can expect just exactly what you have gotten in the past—exactly nothing." The circular closes with an appeal for attendance at the Board of Public Service meeting, there to demand justice for the People's company.

Another "Beware Circular."
The St. Louis Bus Co. batteries came into action yesterday with A.
J. Lange, president of the Linden-wood Improvement Association, directing the fire. It sets out that the advice contained in the first circular is good. "Don't be fooled into the belief that the People's Motorbus Co. will meet your requirements when the St. Louis Bus Co., backed by the United Railways, with all its capital and lines, is the only logical concern to furnish a service which will be permanent and up to every requirement of the people."

Under its caption of "Beware of Outsiders," it carries the information that Receiver Rolla Wells was twice Mayor of St. Louis, and that A. T. Perkins, manager for the receiver, is a man whose word is his bond. The final warning reads:
"Don't be fooled. Don't listen to the siren song of strangers, about whom we know nothing, who are here, not to give service for love of service, but for no other purpose than to make money and then move on to the next town."

IOWA MAKES RAPID STRIDES IN BANISHING ANIMAL T. B.
Winnebago County Leads in Fight for Stamping Out Plague.
Twenty-five counties in Iowa are engaged in tuberculosis eradication
under the area plan, and more cattle are tested in that State monthly than in any other State. Moreover, Winnebago County, Ia., which is the first county to complete area work, is now on the list of modified accredited counties. This designation means that bovine tuberculosis in the county has been reduced, by testing and the removal of the reactors, to less than one-half of 1 per cent.

A number of packers are paying a premium of 10 cents per hundred weight for hogs originating in modified accredited areas. The first carload of hogs in Iowa to receive the 10-cent premium originated in Winnebago County and topped the market in Chicago Monday, July 28, as well as receiving the premium, which amounted to $17.67 for the shipment. In paying the premium for the hogs the president of the packing company which purchased them stated: "I want to pay the premium on some more of them. They are worth more."

WANT TOWER GROVE AND SHAW TRAFFIC SIGNAL REMOVED
The South St. Louis Business
Men's League, meeting last night at Swiss Hall, Iowa avenue and Arsenal street, adopted a resolution requesting the city to remove the present "stop-and-go" traffic signal at Tower Grove and Shaw avenues, so as to permit a left-turn westward on Shaw avenue.

It was further resolved that the signal is unnecessary, delays traffic and that a simple "boulevard-stop" signal would safely answer
the same purpose.

Another resolution directs the attention of city officials to "unnecessary stop-and-go" signals in South St. Louis, and urges that henceforth hearings for or against these signals be held before they are installed. It is the opinion of the league that in many cases these signals serve only to congest traffic.

51 REGIONAL OFFICES FOR VETERANS' CARE

St. Louis to Be Headquarters for Eastern Missouri and Part of Illinois.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—The final decentralization step in the Government's program of furnishing aid to disabled World War veterans was taken yesterday when Secretary Hines of the Veterans' Bureau signed an order establishing 51 regional offices in centers where the Bureau's activities are greatest.

Supplanting the "paper rating" system which has been in vogue and carrying out the policy of personal contact between veteran claimants and Bureau officials, the regional offices will, among other things, have power to award compensation claims, make compensation payments, grant vocational training and make available hospital and medical care.

Doctor Hines said that in time eight control offices would be established to have supervision over the regional offices. These regional offices eventually will absorb the subdistrict offices now functioning.

Each of the offices will be in charge of a regional manager, responsible to the director for cases in his territory and each will have a staff comprised of divisions of claims, rehabilitation, medical and service.

Selection of chiefs of the regional divisions and of members of claims and rating boards and other personnel will be made by the regional managers and confirmed by Director Hines.

The regional offices in the Southwest will be established in Los Angeles and part of Mississippi; St. Louis for Eastern Missouri and part of Illinois; Kansas City, Mo., for Western Missouri and Kansas; Des Moines for Iowa; Omaha, Neb., for Nebraska and part of Iowa; Dallas for Texas; Little Rock for Arkansas and Oklahoma City for Oklahoma and part of Texas.

CITY LETS COAL CONTRACTS; 126,000 TONS USED YEARLY

Total Cost to Be About Same as for Last Year, Outing Assured.

The city, which burns about 126,000 tons of coal a year in municipal buildings and institutions, awarded its annual coal contracts yesterday, through the supply department. Commissioner Outing said the total cost would not differ greatly from that of the past year, which was $239,000.

The waterworks coal contract was let to the Lake and Export Sales Corporation at a price of $2.75 a ton delivered, for screening. Of the price charged, $1.49 represents cost at the mine at Marion, Mo., and $1.25 freight. The price last year was $1.30, plus $1.14 freight, or $2.44, but the guarantee of thermal units was smaller. The present guarantee is 12,500 British thermal units to the ton, and 10 per cent ash. Last year's was 10,000 B. T. U. and 13 per cent ash. The waterworks uses 22,000 tons a year, and its coal bill last year was $28,000.

Other contracts let were: City Hall, wagon load delivery, Berry-Bergs Coal Co., $2.40 a ton; City Hospital, washed coal No. 4 grade, Union Fuel Co., $4.41; Courthouse and infirmary, mine run, Berry-Bergs Co., $3.73; City Hospital No. 2, inland Valley Coal Co., $3.48; for other buildings and institutions, lump coal, Union Fuel Co., $4.04.

THREE ARRESTS MADE FOR $1,000,000 GEM ROBBERY

Wife of New York Chauffeur Turns Over to Police Part of Proceeds of Diamond Sale.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—In the arrest today of two men and a woman, charged with the robbery of Alexander Feidenheimer of $1,000,000 worth of uncut diamonds, Aug. 22, the police and private detectives representing Lloyds of London believe they have taken the first step to break up a band of gem thieves and the clearing up of robberies involving millions of dollars' worth of jewels.

The woman, Mrs. Dorothy Burns, 22 years old, turned over to the police $4,750, which, she said, was the remainder of the money obtained from the sale of the diamonds. The other prisoners, James J. Burns, a chauffeur, the woman's husband, and Harry Chance, both 30 years old, denied any connection with the case.

NEW "HOES" 5-ACRE FIELD

Connecticut Plymouth Rock Knows Woods From Vegetation.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
WINSTED, Conn., Aug. 23.—Minerva, a Plymouth Rock hoes, 12 miles from here, has learned to scratch in the garden without disturbing the crops. She knows the weeds from the vegetables, and has even learned to "hoe" a hill of potatoes.

She does her hoeing hither and thither, hither and thither, but manages to get a five-acre field hoed pretty thoroughly twice a month.

As yet she has not learned to distinguish between a parsnip and a weed, but learns so readily that her owner expects she can tell a parsnip by next parsnip-planting time. He has refused several offers for Minerva, saying she is worth more to him than two hired men.

U. S. LEADS IN WAR ON OPIUM

America to Be Represented at League Conference to Lessen Narcotics Evil.

Special Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch and the Chicago Daily News.
(Copyright, 1934.)
PARIS, France, Aug. 18.—Few Americans realize that probably there is no country in the world that has greater interest than their own, morally, historically and practically, in the suppression of the drug evil.

Realizing that international co-operation was necessary to prevent the smuggling of narcotics, the United States took the initiative in bringing together the nations concerned for the discussion of common measures of control. The United States does not cultivate either the opium poppy or the coca leaf, but Americans are perhaps the largest manufacturers of these two and, therefore, medical products the abuse of which is so frequent. Also in the United States the number of drug addicts is conservatively estimated at 150,000 and the prevention of contraband opium in the Philippines is a perennial problem.

The United States Government will be officially represented on the advisory committee which, under the auspices of the League of Nations, is meeting in Geneva, Switzerland, for the purpose of drafting the program of the narcotics conference to be held in Geneva next November.

To this conference, it is expected the United States will send a full delegation. The American representative on the international advisory committee is Edwin L. Neville, who served for many years in the Far East and who is familiar with conditions of opium.

Clippers Carried Opium.

The formal contact of the United States with the opium traffic dates back to the days of the old American merchant ships. The Yankee "clipper" ship could outlast anything else afloat, and men who sailed those famous craft on the seas of the world were, as a rule, ready for any injustice, enterprise, no matter how dangerous.

At that time, opium was about the most profitable article of trade in the Orient. China was struggling to prevent both the production and the importation of opium. By imperial edict the smuggling of it was made punishable by death. But among the Chinese, the opium-smoking habit, then, now, was deep-seated and widespread, and quick fortunes were to be made in contraband. English merchants, who controlled the Indian opium market, particularly appreciated and would charter by preference, American clippers, whose speed and the daring of whose captains adapted them well to the exciting work of bootlegging opium up and down the China coast.

The dumping of 20,000 cases of British opium into the water of Canton harbor by Chinese officials, and an imperial edict forbidding trade thenceforth with the British, precipitated the so-called opium war of 1840-1842. China, defeated, was forced to cede Hong-kong to Great Britain, to pay an indemnity of $21,000,000, and to accord British commerce special facilities in certain ports. Other Powers, including the United States, desired to enjoy the same facilities and immediately made treaties with China. It was in the American-Chinese commercial treaty of 1844 that the United States Government took its first definite stand against the opium traffic. In this treaty it waived extraterritorial rights over Americans caught smuggling, thus delivering them over to Chinese justice and the death sentence.

Problem in Philippines.

The second chapter in America's relation to the international problem of narcotics opened in 1898. The Spanish Government made the Philippine Islands had legalized and controlled the sale of opium under a licensing system, similar to that still maintained by certain European Powers in their Asiatic colonies. The United States Government, on taking over the Philippines, abolished the licensing system and prohibited opium altogether. But smuggling was so frequent and so near, that, after a few years of experiment, American officials came to the conclusion that the only way to keep contraband opium out of the islands was to enlist other interested nations in what was, after all, a common cause.

Accordingly, in 1908, an American initiative, an international commission to study the entire question met at Shanghai. It was attended by representatives of the United States, Great Britain, France, Germany, Italy, Russia, China, Japan, Holland, Portugal and Siam. Its labors led to the holding of a larger conference in 1911 at The Hague, where was drafted the first international convention for the control of the traffic in narcotics.

The third great step in the fight against the drug evil was taken in 1919. Under the treaty of Versailles and the covenant of the League of Nations, not only was the control organization of The Hague opium convention transferred to Geneva to operate thenceforth under the league's auspices, but automatically all states signatory to the treaty of Versailles became signatories to the Hague narcotics convention, whose effectiveness was thus greatly augmented.

The Value of Charcoal

Few People Know How Useful It Is in Preserving Health and Beauty, and Yet It Is Not a Drug.

Pure white charcoal is the most and most efficient disinfectant and purifier in nature.

And the more you take of it the better. It is not a drug at all, but simply absorbs the impurities and impurities always present in the stomach and intestine and carries them out of the system.

Charcoal cleanses the breath after smoking or eating rich and other odorous vegetables.

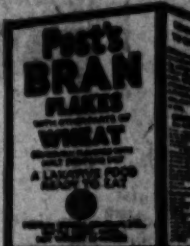

Charcoal effectively cleans and improves the complexion, whitens the teeth, whitens the mouth and throat from the poison of catarrh, and further acts as a natural and entirely safe cathartic.

All druggists sell charcoal in granular or tablet form, but the best and most for the money is in Stuart's Charcoal Tablets. Composed of the finest quality Willow charcoal powdered to extreme fineness, compressed in the form of large, pleasant-tasting lozenges, they are most effective.

Many physicians advise Stuart's Charcoal Tablets as a natural and safe way to clear the complexion and purify the blood, mouth and throat. They are also believed to greatly benefit the liver, cleanse the bowels and drive out a host of drug store poisons. For a free trial and more information, write to F. A. Stuart Co., 13 Stuart Bldg., Manhattan, N. Y. Get more charcoal in Stuart's Charcoal Tablets than in any of the ordinary charcoal tablets.

GIRLS! USE LEMON TO WHITEN SKIN

The only harmless way to bleach the skin white is to mix the juice of two lemons with three ounces of Orchard White, which any druggist will supply for a few cents. Shake well in a bottle, and you have a whole quart-amount of the most wonderful skin whitener, softener and beautifier.

Massage this lovely fragrant lemon bleach into the face, neck, arms and hands. It can not irritate, tan or burn. It is so easily applied, and so effective, that it is the only skin bleach that can be used by the most sensitive skin. Found Asleep At His Desk

Smith had just returned from lunch and was working on an important report when the manager desired to see him. Suddenly there came over him a peculiar drowsiness that seemed to paralyze his brain. He fell into a deep sleep, awakening some time later to find his employer standing at his side.

A great many men, especially those who do mental work, are subject to these drowsy spells before the afternoon. The condition often results from overwork, and after months, if taken during the attack they will become the most annoying and costly habit of the man.

Such attacks can easily be avoided by taking Smith's Tablets before and after meals. If taken during the attack they will become the most annoying and costly habit of the man.

Smith's Tablets are pleasant and harmless, very beneficial to the nervous system. Sold in 25-cent boxes of 100 tablets. Price, 25c. Write for free literature and other good drug stores.

FACTORY CLUBS GET FUNDS FOR DEMOCRATS

More Than $146,000 Contributed, While Other Sources Send in Only $65,000.

Post-Dispatch Bureau.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—Victory clubs, now called the Davis-Bryant Victory clubs, are sending the campaign expenses for the Democratic party. Every member enrolled pays $5.
The clubs have taken the organization out of the hands of the party and have been successful in what seemed to be impossible. The clubs have been successful in what seemed to be impossible. The clubs have been successful in what seemed to be impossible.

Reports received at the Democratic National Committee headquarters here show that 2225 clubs have been organized in towns and cities. All of this has been done in the last few months. The clubs are trying to establish at least one Victory club in every town of more than 1000.
More than $146,000 has been contributed by the Davis-Bryant Victory clubs to date, while all other contributions total but $65,000.

118 Clubs in Missouri.
The Victory club idea has been adopted in most unexpected quarters and failed in others, where big results were expected. The number of clubs for a few of the states participating in the movement follows: Massachusetts, 143; Pennsylvania, 189; Ohio, 137; North Carolina, 137; Missouri, 118; Georgia, 118; Alabama, 63, and New York, 92. Forty-six of the 48 states have clubs.

William J. Bryan, president of the Miami, Fla., club, held a meeting on his front porch one night and gathered in 47 checks for $5 each.

Representative Charles A. McNary of Ohio is president of the Cleveland club. He sent in $1075.

Women Turn the Tables.
In a number of instances men who were asked to serve as presidents of these clubs replied that it was impossible "to raise funds." Immediately women undertook the task and have met with signal success. In Fort Wayne, Ind., Mrs. A. E. Janorochka collected $415 from 32 members. Mrs. Samuel M. Wilson of Lexington, Ky., sent in $775. Mrs. Ada Elgin, who lives in a small western town, volunteered when a man saw nothing but defeat, and came across with $250.

Of the 375 Victory club members in Indiana, only three were Democrats in 1920. Two of them have contributed $19 each and one $5.

This Victory club movement originated during the Cleveland campaign as chairman of the Democratic Committee. A Tennessee Democrat wrote him that he was glad to know he was directing the affairs of this party, and enclosed his check for $5 for "Victory."

Origin of First Victory Club.
He added that some of his neighbors, though poor like himself, would gladly give $5 each if asked to do so. Hall was pleased with the suggestion and asked the local Democrat to see how many he could get. A neat sum was raised and sent in, and the donors became members of the first Victory club.

Within recent weeks an effort has been made to abolish the system by some who felt that it discouraged larger contributions, but it is doing so well it has been decided that it will not only be maintained but encouraged in every way possible. Col. Bryan has given $1000 to the party, and he says it is the Democratic way to get campaign funds.

UNAUTHORIZED TICKET SALE

Gettysburg Circle, No. 44, G. A. R. Makes Complaint.

The Charles E. Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce has received complaint from Mrs. Harry Krug, president, and Mrs. Emma Krug, secretary, of the Gettysburg Circle, No. 44, of the G. A. R., that a professional promoter, without authorization, was using the name of the Gettysburg Circle in promoting an entertainment.

Mrs. Krug said tickets had been printed for the entertainment without authorization and were being sold in St. Louis business houses. These tickets read as follows: "Benefit Social, Hotel Ball Room, Thursday, July 21, 1924, $5 each. The reverse side of the tickets read: 'This ticket is issued by the Gettysburg Circle, No. 44, of the G. A. R., St. Louis, Mo.'"

While the entertainment was scheduled, according to the tickets, to be held July 21, arrangements have been made to those who purchased the tickets that it has been postponed to sometime in October or November. Efforts will be made by the Gettysburg Circle to stop the unauthorized sale of these tickets.

LIVING WAGE FOR LABOR ADVOCATED BY GOV. BRYAN

Democratic Vice-Presidential Nominee, Senator Charles W. Bryan, today issued a proclamation today, setting aside that day as a State holiday and outlined his views on questions relating to the labor elements.

The proclamation stated that, while labor is represented in the nation's councils, collective bargaining, as one of labor's rights, has not been recognized as full as it should be. The eight-hour day is not sufficient—it must be accompanied by a "living wage based on American standards, with a margin for old age," the document read, adding that the latter must be universally recognized "if the employee is to be given an equal standing before law and an equal opportunity to enjoy all the benefits of a Government by the people."

Indications are that Bryan will be in Lincoln Friday, when Charles G. Dawes, his Republican opponent, speaks at the University of Nebraska stadium. Inasmuch as Republicans served with Democrats in arranging Gov. Bryan's notification ceremony, it is considered likely that he will extend a greeting to his old friend.

Bryan of Nebraska, will open the Democratic campaign in the West and will make his first speech of the campaign since his notification ceremony, next Monday, Labor day, before an outdoor audience, a few miles north of here. The Democratic nominee is expected to bring a message particularly to farmers and rural dwellers, who will gather at River Sioux Park, the farm-house of Louis N. Crill, South Dakota Democratic chairman, to hear him.

JEWELERS COMBAT WATCH IMPORTATION

Organization Formed to Check Both Goods and Importers, Speaker Tells Convention.

Steps whereby jewelers recently began to combat the importation of watches of inferior quality to sell on the name of "Swiss" were detailed by Emil Jolla, secretary of the American Watch Importers' Association, at yesterday's session of the American National Retail Jewelers' Association at Hotel St. Louis.

One jeweler elucidated the situation by the remark that "while the best watches were made in Switzerland, so were the worst ones." Jolla said that although the public had considered the name "Swiss" applied to a watch as prima facie evidence of accuracy and dependability, "an influx of nondescript and undependable timepieces, brought in by irresponsible and frequently dishonest individuals," had considerably changed that attitude.

To remedy that condition, he reported, an organization had been formed to check on watch importation. It operates by examining not only the watches, but the importer. A certificate is issued only if the watch is good and the importer is able to render good service in repairs, parts and the like. Yesterday's program of addresses on trade technique extended into a night session. Ralph Roessler of Marion, Ind., chairman of a taxation committee, was presented with a substantial check, of which the exact amount was not made public, in recognition of having secured a material reduction of the excise tax upon articles of jewelry, especially the less expensive articles.

Pearls and diamonds and platinum in many combinations that seemed to glow or glitter—or both—were tried on Miss Helen Moore, who will represent St. Louis in a beauty contest next week at Atlantic City, and photographed for the mutual benefit of jewelry exhibitors and moving-picture news gatherers.

Today's session is taken up by reports of officers and committees. St. Louis manufacturers and wholesalers of jewelry have reserved 1400 tickets for the visitors for tonight's performance of "Carmen" at the Municipal Theater. The convention will close tomorrow after the election of officers.

New Steel Bridge at Butler.

BUTLER, Mo., Aug. 28.—The building of the new steel bridge over the Miami River west of here, taking the place of the old structure, which has been used for 50 years, was started yesterday. The new bridge will be on the highway running from this city to the Kansas State line and will be 200 feet long.

CLIMBUP OF CROOKS ORDERED
Gen. Butler Tells Philadelphia
Force to "Shoot to Kill."
By the Associated Press.
PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 25.—
Eighty detectives with shoot-to-kill orders issued by Brigadier-General Butler, Director of Public Safety, cruised about the city early today in a new prearranged drive on suspicious characters. The General declared he feared a fall crime wave with the return of vacation-ists from the seashore. "Go out and shoot everyone with a gun," he ordered his men as they started out late last night. "Any one that threatens you with a gun, kill him. Get those boys before they get you."

BIBLE STILL MOST READ AT LIBRARY

Annual Report Also Shows Book Is Stolen More Than Any Other.

The Bible is still one of the most read—and stolen—books at the public libraries. Books on home brewing, radio and mah jong are in demand. The most widely read book of non-fiction is Papini's "Life of Christ."

These are a few of the interesting items from the annual report of the St. Louis Public Library for the fiscal year ending last April, made public by Dr. Arthur E. Boerwick, librarian.

Fiction, as well as the Bible, is favored by the light-fingered. The number of books withdrawn during the year for various reasons, worn out, charged and not returned, exchanged or stolen, amounted to 24,178 volumes. Additions, however, more than offset the losses and gave a net increase of 11,424 volumes. Figures were not available as to the number of Bibles stolen during the year.

Explanation of the frequent theft of Bibles was advanced by a bookseller, who said: "The Bible is without doubt the most popular and the easiest sold of all books. In the cases of those who steal Bibles, it seems they are determined to have one by hook or crook, regardless of the morals of it, and they do not wish to buy, beg or borrow one. Then, too, the Bible reader is apt to cherish the book as a friend and he does not wish to be separated from it, even though he is not its owner."

The outstanding feature of the year, in the opinion of the chief of the circulation department, is the re-establishment of the reading habit on the part of those who appeared, at one time, to be giving up books for radio. This is deduced from the library's increase in circulation, which in March exceeded all previous records for that month.

"During the winter the chief interest was in college themes," the report says. "Approximately 2000 students sought the library's aid in preparing 3000-word themes on subjects ranging from glands, to zoology. Occasionally real has outrun discrimination, as in the case of one young woman who headed her bibliography on cosmetics with Buck's 'Cosmic Consciousness,' while another, unable to obtain material on witchcraft in Puritan New England, took a book on Irish Demonology explaining she could easily change it to fit her subject."

Drama in Great Demand.
"As in former years, drama has perhaps been in greatest demand, although books on evolution and works on chemistry have achieved considerable popularity."

The guardians of the open shelf rooms, where readers sometimes, absently minded or otherwise, misappropriate books, report: "The Bible has succeeded in beating its own record this past year, five copies having been stolen by one reader at against a rival's theft of three the year previous. It is one of the most widely read books in the department, and one copy is always kept at the desk for the reader who comes in and asks for it each day, along with the 'Count of Monte Cristo,' swapping the 'Count' now and then for the more realistic 'Famous Assassinations.'"

Home Brew Books Sought.
The South Branch Library, which is in South St. Louis and populated to a considerable extent by foreign-born, reports: "We have been besieged for books on the mysteries of brewing and on the manufacture of Indian medicine."

Books subsequently dramatized for the screen have been in demand, particularly "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," "Bourbon," "The White Sister," "The Covered Wagon," "Black Oxen" and "When Knighthood Was in Flower."

The library's stock of bound volumes has now reached 648,700. It also possesses 274,902 pamphlets. Its active users—meaning those who have borrowed books within three years—number 132,112. It circulated for home use last year 2,332,112 volumes, a gain of $4,143 for the year, making it the largest home use in the library's history. Books deposited in schools numbered 27,947. Volumes read in the library buildings, so far as records could be kept, aggregated 698,589.

Increased circulation is reported by the department for the blind, which was established in January, with Edward F. Endicott, himself blind and an attorney, in charge. During April 260 Braille volumes were sent out, making a total of 620 for the first four months. The activities of this department include organization of literary clubs, a musical society and of groups of women for the purpose of transcribing into Braille volumes to be used by the blind.

K. K. K. MENACE
TO THE COUNTRY,
S. A. BAKER SAYS

Republican Nominee for Governor Forced Into Definite Statement by Query of Negro.

CANDIDATE HEARD IN TWO SPEECHES HERE

Promise Made to City Committee That He Will Consult It on Patronage, if He Is Elected.

The Ku Klux Klan is a menace to the people and the Constitution of this country, Sam A. Baker, Republican nominee for Governor, said last night, in reply to a question at a negro meeting at Argus Hall, 2325 Market street.

"Do you consider the Klan a menace to the people and the Constitution of the country?" was the question put by William H. Robinson, a negro employed in the office of City Collector Koehn.

"Yes," replied Baker, as he was walking toward the door. He had interrupted his speech and was hurrying to catch a train for his home at Jefferson City when the question was put by Robinson, who had not been satisfied with statements concerning the Klan made during the speech.

Previous statements on Klan.
Baker had asserted, at the negro meeting and earlier, in the evening before the Republican City Committee that he was not a member of the Klan, had never been, had never witnessed a Klan ceremony or heard a Klan lecturer and that he "does not approve of any organization which works in secret or in the dark."

A considerable portion of the city committee speech was devoted to a discussion of patronage. The nominee said he would appreciate recommendations for appointments to the committee. This assertion was applauded. Gov. Hyde has consistently ignored such recommendations.

"I shall welcome assistance in making appointments from rightfully constituted political organizations of cities and counties," Baker said. "Or in other words, 'I'll make it plainer, I would for the under obligation to the Republican organization in making appointments. Is that clear enough?'"

Applause which followed the remark indicated the committee thought it was.

"Now there is another question I presume everyone is interested in,"
Baker said to the City Committee, holding up to the Klan discussion.
"I really feel that before a candidate of the Republican party gives out an extended statement he should have before him the platform of the party."

"The new State committee meets to organize and formulate the platform on Sept. 9 and the platform will not be available until then. I don't want to presume too much on what the platform will contain."

"I have been standing squarely on the platform embodied in resolutions adopted at the State convention at Springfield, last spring, and you know what that platform
had to say regarding a certain subject which you have been hearing discussed every day."

Names of the Resolutions.
The Springfield Republican convention adopted a resolution condemning organizations which promote individuals because of religion, race or creed. It did not mention the Klan by name.

"I'll make it plainer," Baker continued. "You all know that the convention had in mind the Ku Klux Klan. Now with respect to sample ballots which were purported to have been circulated by the Klan, I never saw one, but I was told my name appeared on these ballots. Some folks got the idea from that I was a believer in the Klan."

"Let me read you what appeared in a Popular Staff paper after I spoke there on July 24, two weeks before the primary. The editor of the paper came to my room after the speech and got the statement
I made in what he quoted me as saying then."

"It has come to my attention
that the St. Louis Post-Dispatch has carried a story in which it is stated that sample ballots attributed to the Ku Klux Klan have been distributed in Kansas City, and that my name is on that ballot as my choice for candidate for Governor on the Republican ticket."

"I want to say that I am not a member of the Ku Klux Klan; that I have never been a member; that I have never attended one of their meetings, nor have I ever heard a Ku Klux Klan speaker. Nothing and the Klan does not own me anything. I do not approve of any organization."

ST. LOUIS ORPHANS GUESTS OF ROTARIANS

More Than 2000 Youngsters Frolic at Forest Park in Annual Outing.

St. Louis orphans—2998 of them, boys and girls—also had their day at Forest Park yesterday and made the most of it, the occasion being the seventh annual outing and picnic arranged for them by the Rotary Club. Besides countless sandwiches, drinks and portions of ice cream, the program included athletic games, drills, comic stunts, community singing and a trip through the zoo.

Only one local orphanage was not represented, the Lutheran Orphan's Home at Kirkwood. One of the 150 inmates was taken ill with scarlet fever and the other 149 were placed under quarantine. Tearful scenes ensued.

The most conspicuously happy of the orphans in the park were Edward and Rose Henry, brother and sister. They are cared for at separate institutions, and see each other only once a year, when they are reunited at the Rotary outing. At their meeting yesterday they hugged each other for minutes. Then they sealed their happiness in ice cream.

One casualty was reported—an enterprising boy, name unknown, managed to get more hard-boiled eggs and sandwiches than the others. Result: He complained of pains in the abdomen and was given first-aid treatment.

The star of the afternoon program of athletics was Ruth Hulston, 11 years old of the St. Louis Protestant Orphanage, who won three first prizes in as many foot races. Other honors were divided pretty evenly among representatives of St. Joseph's and St. Mary's Catholic homes, the Jewish Orphan's Home, St. Vincent's German Home, Masonic Home, German General Protestant Home, Girls' Industrial Home, Christian Orphanage and Jewish Shelter Home.

Twenty-five special street cars transported the children to and from the park. Each child was tagged with the name of his orphanage, and none was lost.

During the afternoon the TC-1, dirigible from Scott Field, sailed over the park, and caused many exclamations among the children.

WOULD END SERVICE OF DRINKS FROM TABLES ON SIDEWALKS

Director of Streets Says Practice of Some Cafes and Drug Stores
Is Illegal.

Directors of Streets and Sewers Flak today sent a letter to the Police Department calling attention to the growing practice of cafe owners and drugists in placing tables on the sidewalks in front of their places of business for serving customers in automobiles.

In pointing out that the practice violates a city ordinance prohibiting the placing of such obstacles on sidewalks and urging immediate steps for their removal, Director Flak said:

"In making a round of the city last Tuesday I found hundreds of tables standing in front of cafes and soft drink establishments, and in many instances chairs, converting the sidewalks into veritable summer gardens. Will you kindly follow up the matter and notify patrolmen to order their owners to remove them. If they are allowed to remain, forming obstacles for pedestrian traffic, this department will undertake their removal alone."

DAWES WILL NOT DISCUSS REPARATIONS IN CAMPAIGN

Vice Presidential Nominee Plans Plan Would Be Endangered if Taken on Stump.

By the Associated Press
EVANSTON, Ill., Aug. 28.—Discussion of the reparations settlement plan bearing his name will be avoided in campaign speeches by Charles G. Dawes, Republican nominee for the vice presidency.

The suggestion was made to Dawes that he discuss, in his Lincoln (Neb.) speech tomorrow night, the relation of settlement of the European economic situation to future of American agriculture, but he replied that he had already made up his mind not to discuss the experts' plan during the campaign, and for that reason, he had issued no public statement recently when the allies and Germany reached an agreement on inauguration of the plan.

Dawes said he did not desire to make political capital out of what was undertaken and carried through as a nonpolitical task, and he feared that any discussion of the plan on his part might hinder Owen D. Young and his assistants in putting the plan into effective operation.

Fatal Row Between Farmers.

By the Associated Press
GREENVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 28.—"Bill" Ricker, Greene County farmer, is dead, and Andy Rader, a neighbor, is in county jail awaiting preliminary trial before a Justice of the Peace on a charge of murder as a result of a shooting affray in the Pleasant Valley district late Tuesday. Trouble between the men, each of whom had passed his sixtieth birthday, arose over the pasturing of live stock in Rader's meadow.

SOME FACTS ABOUT THE ST. LOUIS BUS SITUATION

There are at present pending before the Board of Public Service of the City of St. Louis, applications from two Companies to operate busses;—these two Companies are THE PEOPLES MOTOR BUS COMPANY and the ST. LOUIS BUS COMPANY.

THE PEOPLES MOTOR BUS COMPANY

This Company is operating the busses now running on Washington, Delmar, Lindell, Locust and Grand Boulevards. It is controlled by Chicago interests and is not operating under regulation of the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri or in any way as a public utility, but is operated under permits granted by the Board of Public Service of St. Louis without limitation of earnings or disposition of the same.

THE ST. LOUIS BUS COMPANY

This Company has recently been incorporated by members of the Committee having in charge the reorganization of the United Railways Company, which Committee has been at work for several months past, to take the United Railways Company out of receivership and place it in the hands of a new Company.

PURPOSE OF THE ST. LOUIS BUS COMPANY

The St. Louis Bus Company was organized under the laws of the State of Missouri with a paid-in capital of $10,000.00 which will be increased as occasion demands. This Company was organized to furnish without delay, bus service to territories not now served with transportation since, despite the fact that the Receiver of the Railways realizes the need for and wishes to institute such service, he is not permitted so to do because the Company is in receivership.

The applications of the St. Louis Bus Company now under consideration are for the extension of service into the Walnut Park, Natural Bridge, Lindenwood and Morganford districts, with a connecting line across Kingshighway boulevard. Such bus service established over these routes together with transfers between busses and the street cars will furnish adequate and comprehensive service, and will be the first step in co-ordination of a street car and bus transportation system which will provide adequately for the growth of this City.

TRANSFER PRIVILEGES

A contract will be entered into between the St. Louis Bus Company and the Receiver which will provide that a passenger may transfer from a bus to a street car without payment of any additional fare; and may transfer from a street car to a bus on payment of 3c additional fare. By this arrangement the sections of the city not now served by the Street Railways will be given a service and have at their command the entire five hundred miles of the city street car system.

PROFITS OF THE ST. LOUIS BUS COMPANY

The St. Louis Bus Company will be operated under a plan whereby all earnings over a fair return on the money actually invested in the bus system, that is to say, all its net profits, will be turned over to the Street Railways to help meet its needs in furnishing better transportation to St. Louis. All earnings and operating statements of the St. Louis Bus Company will be made public and furnished to the public authorities in the same manner as is now required of the Street Railways.

Extensions and Additions to Bus Service and Co-ordination with Street Car Transportation

The St. Louis Bus Company was formed by the reorganizers of the Street Railway Company to initiate the policy, which is that now recognized by operators of street railways throughout the country, to wit; that street railways should furnish bus transportation not only for extension purposes, but also as a complete service co-ordinated with the transportation furnished by street cars.

WHEN SERVICE WILL BE STARTED

THE ST. LOUIS BUS COMPANY STANDS READY, AND IS ABLE TO INSTITUTE THIS BUS SERVICE, ACCORDING TO THE PROPOSALS MADE, AS SOON AS AUTHORITY FOR SUCH SERVICE IS GIVEN BY THE BOARD OF PUBLIC SERVICE, IN WHOSE ENTIRE CHARGE THIS MATTER NOW RESTS.

less).—The tug-of-war team captained by the Prince of Wales was defeated yesterday afternoon, while all day's passengers cheered victors and losers alike. The Americans, elated by their victory, then engaged in a tug against a team composed of the press representatives aboard, whom they defeated still more easily.

The tug between the Prince's team and the Americans was a gala event. The Prince and his associates tugged pluckily but the Americans tugged more effectively.

The hilarity increased when the Prince, having congratulated the victors, entered into a potato race, in which he was also a loser. For a time Lord Louis Mountbatten, a member of the Prince's party, seemed a sure winner, but he misplaced a potato and lost.

The Prince also visited the American students' quarters and listened to a lecture on English literature.

In the evening he attended a seamen's charity concert and at night again joined the dancers in the ballroom. He spent much of his forenoon on a tour of inspection of the liner, escorted by Capt. Irvine and other officers.

ZR-3 Makes Successful
Test Trip With 60 Aboard'Finest Ship We Ever Built,' Says Zeppelin Director, After 2-Hour Cruise in Pouring Rain.

By the Associated Press.
FRIEDRICHSHAVEN, Germany, Aug. 28.—ZR-3, the dirigible which Germany built for the United States and which is soon to cross the ocean, made her baptismal trip yesterday in a pouring rain. She completed a two-hour flight over Lake Constance, which gave the natives and summer tourists a thrill and recollections of the days during the war when the launching of a dirigible took place every month or so.

"The ship behaved splendidly," said Dr. Hugo Eckener, director of the Zeppelin company, who was in command, "and everything worked well, excepting one of the five motors, which refused to function properly and as a consequence was put off toward the end of the flight."

Americans Satisfied.

Six Americans were aboard, and were well satisfied, although they did not see much of the country below on account of the rain and mist. The ship kept just under the clouds, reaching an altitude of only 1500 feet. The highest speed attained was little more than 50 miles per hour.

Dr. Eckener repeated: "We are well satisfied. She met all expectations and is the finest ship we ever built."

The Zeppelin officials announced that nuts and bolts on one of the engines were found to be defective. Two other motors, it was said, did not quite come up to expectations and they were taken down, with the view of remedying their faults. It is planned to use the same motors on the next trial flight, which probably will take place next week.

"Really a Joy Ride."

Capt. George W. Steele, U. S. Navy, said: "This was really a joy ride for all the Americans. We had absolutely nothing to do with the navigation, as the Germans desired to try out the ship and see if there were any kinks anywhere."

The Americans aboard were Capt. Steele, Commander Garand Fulton, Lieutenant-Commander Snyder M. Kraus, Naval Lieutenant Karl Schmidt, Maj. Frank Kennedy, army air service, and Jack Yokton, construction superintendent of the aeronautical department of the Goodrich Rubber Co.

Watch Kept for Faults.

All told there were 60 persons aboard, most of them technicians who had assisted in building the ship and took the ride to assist in finding faults, if any existed. In the great ship, in addition, there were the ship's mascot, a canary for the officers, and two black crows.

While the ship was more than two years in the building, it required less than 10 minutes for her to take the air after she slid out into the open. There was no cheering nor hat waving anywhere among the German crowds assembled inside the grounds and on the ridge of hills beyond.

Lakehurst Preparing for Reception to ZR-3 on Arrival in U. S.

By the Associated Press.
LAKEHURST, N. J., Aug. 28.—Preparations are under way here for the reception to be tendered the navy's newest rigid-type dirigible, the ZR-3, which is expected to leave its hangar at Friedrichshafen, Germany, about Sept. 10, to begin its long trans-oceanic journey to the big hangar here which houses the sister ship Shenandoah.

Helium to be used in the German-made craft began arriving here yesterday in large quantities. The trip from Germany will be made with hydrogen.

LOSS IN MAIL TRUCK FIRE
ESTIMATED AT $500,000

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—Twenty-five bags of registered mail, diamonds, currency and valuable merchandise were damaged by flames in a mail truck in front of 159 Varick street last night. Half a dozen other bags were damaged and their contents of jewelry and currency scattered into the gutter by streams played on the vehicle by firemen.

A crowd kept in check by firemen and police watched the work of salvage. Postal officials estimated the loss would be close to $500,000.

The five-ton truck was being driven by William Frazer, with an armed guard beside him, when a passerby discovered a blaze among the mail sacks.

As Frazer and the guard stood by with revolvers drawn, firemen turned two streams on the blaze, the high pressure stream ripping open the damaged and burning mail bags. The origin of the fire has not been determined.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 28.—Henry Ford, in a wireless dispatch from his yacht en route from Montreal to Detroit, to his offices here, positively denied statements credited to him by the Montreal

Star, wherein he was quoted as saying that the Ku Klux Klan was misunderstood. Ford, in his message, not only denied the interview published by the Montreal Star, but asserted that he had given no interview to anyone while in Montreal, and also stated that he had not discussed the Ku Klux Klan.

FREED from endless rubbing—simply soaking does it!

You just let Rinso soak the dirt out of your clothes—you don't have to stay at the tubs—your time is saved for your home and children

Different from the laundry soaps that you have used before—

Modern in form—dissolving into a rich soapy solution that gives you a tubful of "soapsuds" water to soak your clothes in—

Labor-saving—for the Rinso suds simply soak dirt out of your clothes—

Only a light rubbing—even on the worst places just a light rubbing with a bit of dry Rinso. Then collar bands, cuff edges, and other grimy spots come beautifully clean.

And then, because it is all dissolved, this soapy solution rinses out thoroughly. No bits of soap left sticking to your clothes to turn them yellow under the iron—utterly impossible with Rinso! Your wash is snowier and sweeter than ever—a real pleasure to look at as it hangs on your line.

The creamy Rinso suds do your whole wash in the quickest, easiest, most thorough way. You don't need to bother any longer using several kinds of soap on washday—the one and only soap you need is Rinso.

Just use the cleansing Rinso solution in your tubs, boiler, washing machine. See how much more time you have on washday—how much more sparkle and energy!

Women have found that the qualities that make Rinso so wonderful in the laundry also make it a splendid household soap. "The magic-like way it cleans enameled surfaces," says one; "a little goes such a long way for floors and linoleum," says another. "At last something that does not hurt my hands," writes a third. A fourth says, "The most satisfactory thing for washing dishes, pots and pans. I use it, too, on walls and woodwork." Rinso is made by the makers of Lux to do the family wash as wonderfully as Lux does fine things. Get a package of Rinso from your grocer today. It comes in two sizes, the regular size and the big new package. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.

in Total Paid Advertising

Advertisers in 18 principal cities of the United States used 268,520,608 lines of Paid Advertising in their leading EVENING newspaper in 1923, which was 54% more than they used in the first morning newspaper in the same cities.

Complete figures for accurate comparisons were not obtainable from all of the larger cities.

Throughout the United States, the leading EVENING newspaper in the principal cities has an average of 52% more city circulation than the first morning newspaper.

This compact distribution, confined to the natural shopping area, is a characteristic of EVENING newspaper circulation, and advertisers prefer it to the widely scattered circulations of morning newspapers.

That is one of the reasons why the increase in newspaper advertising in 1923 over 1922 was nearly 100% larger in the great evening newspapers than in their nearest morning contemporaries.

For years the Post-Dispatch has carried more advertising than any other St. Louis newspaper—often more than ALL THREE others COMBINED.

City circulation supremacy makes advertising profitable and the continued CONCENTRATION of advertising in ONE newspaper proves that newspaper's Circulation Supremacy.

Experience has taught advertisers that the occasional shopper from far distant points does not justify the advertising expense of widely scattered circulation. Experience has proved that the only profitable response to advertising comes from the home city and the close-in suburban territory—the natural shopping zone—and it is in that area that EVENING newspaper circulations are Supreme.

CHARGES MARRIAGE CEREMONY WAS FAKE

Woman Says She Believed Wedding Two Years Ago Was Legal Until Recently.

When Mrs. Lillian Krause, 28 years old, 3927A North Florissant avenue, recently sought to file suit to divorce Anthony Helle, 31, of 3911 Lee avenue, sheet metal worker, with whom she had lived for nearly two years, she learned no legal marriage ceremony had been performed, she testified yesterday in Police Court.

Helle was on trial for assaulting Mrs. Krause on Aug. 5. She alleged he struck her in the face and choked her when she called him to dinner from a saloon near their residence. He was fined $50.

Helle was on trial for assaulting Mrs. Krause on Aug. 5. She alleged he choked her when she upbraided him for not speaking to her as he was talking to another woman on the street, near their residence. He was fined $50.

Mrs. Krause, who was married when she was 14 years old and later divorced her first husband, said she, Helle and two other men went to Alton in an automobile Dec. 29, 1922, to be married. Helle went into a building she supposed to be the courthouse and announced, upon returning, that he had obtained a marriage license, she said.

They then went to what was represented to her as a Justice of the Peace office and a ceremony was performed, she asserted. The supposed justice gave her a certificate of marriage signed "Justice Hackenbauer." That certificate was framed by her "husband" and hung in their bedroom, she said, adding that he tore it up after the altercation Aug. 5.

When she sought to file a divorce action her attorney investigated Madison County, Ill., records but could find no trace of the marriage. No "Justice Hackenbauer" is known in Alton, Mrs. Krause said. She related her story to the District Attorney Monday and Helle was arrested Tuesday on a mean act violation charge. He was freed under $1000 bond, after denying that he even was married to the complainant.

LENINE'S ESTIMATE OF HIS COLLEAGUES IS REVEALED

Political Testament, Handed to Soviet Chiefs by Widow, Said Trotsky Fought Too Much.

Correspondence of the Associated Press. RIGA, Aug. 5.—What Nikolai Lenin thought of his own co-workers is revealed in a political testament of his which, according to the Socialists, has recently been handed by his widow to the Central Executive Committee of the communist party.

In short sentences the late Premier writes as follows about various leaders of bolshevik Russia: Trotsky—Very gifted, but loves to pose too much. It is wrong to accuse him of leaning toward membership, for in reality he has always stood on the side of the bolsheviks. He can be an excellently disciplined party member.

Zinoviev—Not gifted, yearning for power. A sharp eye must be kept on him. He can become a danger to the party.

Kamenev—Vacillates. An opportunist, as was proven during the October days of 1917. He must be watched.

Stalin—Not clever, anxious to pick quarrels, a climber who strives to set himself up as dictator.

Bucharin—Not clever, a bad Marxist, knows nothing about tactics, though he likes to write about it.

Platakov—Very gifted, but has been smothered of late by administrative work.

The testament is said to have been opened in the presence of all the persons whom Lenin undertook to describe and characterize.

ROBBERS RETURN PART OF LOOT

Joseph Ameln of 2807 Texas avenue, a driver for the Cascade Laundry Co., 2655 Victor street, was held up in front of 1534 North Ninth street at 5:40 p. m. yesterday and robbed of $78.13 by two men who leaped on the running board of his truck and forced him to drive into a nearby alley.

When Ameln pleaded with the robbers, declaring $15 of the money was his own and that he was a poor man, one of the men peeled three $10 bills from the roll and threw them to the driver with the remark, "We don't want your money." The robbers then drove away in the laundry truck and Ameln later found it abandoned three blocks away where the men said they would leave it.

While much of the hay will be stored or stacked, a great amount will be sold and is estimated that fully $300,000 worth of the total $450,000 crop will be "cashed in" while the remainder will be fed to stock or held until winter in the hope of obtaining higher prices.

HEAVY OSAGE HAY CROP

Value of $450,000 Placed on Crop in Oklahoma County.

HOMINY, Ok.—The mowers and hay balers are busy these days in Osage County putting up the crop of prairie hay and alfalfa. It is estimated that there are 20,000 acres of prairie hay in the county which will be cut this year. Some is cut twice, while the remainder is only cut once. A conservative estimate places the amount of prairie hay this year at $5,000 tons and its value at $350,000. The third cutting of alfalfa is now being made on 5000 acres in the county. It is estimated the crop will make 15,000 tons and that the value of the alfalfa will be approximately $200,000.

NEGRO ORDER PLANS BUILDING

A $2,000,000 building to house the home offices of the Royal Circle of Friends of the World, a negro fraternal insurance organization, will be erected soon in Chicago, it was announced yesterday by former Judge Eugene J. Marshall of Chicago at the annual convention of the organization in St. Louis yesterday. Work on the building, which will be a 12-story brick structure, will begin next year, he said.

The organization now maintains two hospitals for its members, one at Memphis and one at Little Rock. Among the speakers yesterday was Dr. D. J. Williams, chief medical examiner of the society, who declared that the death rate in the organization was 13 per thousand, no higher than that of old line insurance companies. CHILDREN SAID SEEKING TO PLACE FOUR BOYS IN HOMES

Society Wants Places Before Sept. 2 So Youngsters Will Not Be Delayed for School.

Four boys who are under the care of the Children's Aid Society are in need of homes. Boarding homes where the society will pay for the boys' board and clothing are being sought before Sept. 2 so the boys will not be delayed in starting school.

Three of the boys are orphaned boys, aged 4, 7 and 10 years. They are well-behaved youngsters for whom a Lutheran home, or at least a home in a family living near a Lutheran church which they could attend, is being sought.

The other boy, aged 12 years, is a bit backward and for that reason a home near the Emerson, Bates or Irving school, where special classes are held, is desired.

Further information may be secured by calling Lindell 2970 or by a visit to the office in the Vano Building.

BRITISH EMBASSY FOR ANGORA

Outpost of Constantinople Legation to Be Established.

From a Staff Correspondent of the Manchester Guardian and the New York World and the Post-Tribune. Copyright, 1924.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 28.—
An outpost building of the British Embassy here is to be established in Angora. The British Government has requested the Turkish Government to designate a suitable site for the building. The Diplomatic Secretary and the Vice Consul are to be detached from here to reside in the new capital when the building is finished.

The papal nuncio of Bucharest has arrived here on a special mission, which, it is indicated, concerns the closure of French religious schools in Turkey. Papal authorities have been asked for accepting the Turkish demands that all school crucifixes be removed except from chapels. It is understood the request probably will be granted, in which case the schools will be enabled to reopen
in the autumn.

SUES AS CREDITOR OF HEIR TO BREAK WILL

Oswald Trova Attacks Disposition by Miss Henrietta F.
Monti of $40,000 Estate.

Suit was filed today by Oswald
Trova, an automobile accessory dealer, to set aside the will of Miss Henrietta F. Monti, who died Feb.
1, leaving her estate, estimated at $40,000, to her daughter, Mrs. Er-nesta Monti, 1317 Oak court.

The suit is unique in that, although Trova was not of any kin to the testatrix, he contends throughout his testimony, former Judge Vital W. Garesche, that he has the right to maintain the action as a creditor of Miss Monti's brother, Edward J. Monti, a former attorney of this city who would have an interest as an heir in his sister's estate in the event her will should be declared void.

According to the petition, four days after his sister's death Attorney Monti assigned whatever interest he might have in her property to Trova. In consideration of which the latter paid $2500. The assignment was made because at the time Monti was largely indebted to plaintiff, the suit sets forth.

When Miss Monti's will was filed several weeks ago at her death, it was found she had not mentioned her brother as a beneficiary. The will suit charges that by reason of her weakened condition from illness when the instrument was drawn, she did not have sufficient mental capacity to understand the meaning and effect of the document, and the will was not as she desired.

Her estate holds an interest in realty at 919 Locust street, 1294 Amherst place, 1918-14 Page boulevard, 1290-33 Midland avenue, 1297 Oak court and 1297 Oak court, to which interest her brother is entitled to a one-seventh part under the law, the petition states.

Mrs. Monti, an executrix and sole beneficiary, is named as defendant.

LAWYER LOSES TEST CASE AS A TRAFFIC VIOLATOR

Says Parking Ordinance Is Illegal and Warns He Will Continue to Violate It, Despite Fine.

J. Ray Weinbrenner, an attorney with offices in the National Bank of Commerce Building, was fined $5 and costs by Provisional Judge Mayer in Police Court today on a charge of failing to obey reasonable directions given by a police officer. Weinbrenner was arrested on the afternoon of Aug. 11
by Patrolman Herman Herter.

Weinbrenner, who defended himself, admitted the truth of the statement, but declared the ordinance, drawn by the Traffic Council, was illegal and that citizens could not be forced to obey it, regardless of whether or not it was reasonable.

In assessing the fine Judge Mayer reminded him that if he upheld contention I will make half the ordinances of St. Louis illegal." After declaring he would appeal, Weinbrenner served notice that "I will continue to park on Olive street or any other street I choose until the traffic ordinance is drawn by a legally constituted body."

McKELVEY LISTS EXPENSES IN RACE FOR SHERIFF AT $3109

Unsuccessful Candidate Filed Statement With Recorder of Deeds.

Director of Public Safety McKelvey spent $3109.86 in his unsuccessful race for the Republican nomination for Sheriff, according to a statement filed with the Recorder of Deeds yesterday. He was defeated by City Marshal Schuler.

McKelvey's statement divides his expenses as follows: Printing and signs, $1043; automobile banners, $384; cuts for advertisements, $390; tickets and picnic, $105.80; donations, $80; luncheon and refreshments, $100; postage, $100; newspaper and program advertising, $769.16 and billboard advertising,
$127.

Mrs. William T. Nardin, elected Republican Committeewoman in the Twenty-eighth Ward, spent $447 to obtain the office. Committeemen or Committeewomen receive no salary. Mrs. Nardin, according to her statement, employed 14 young women as clerks.

BAK ROBBIE GETS 10 YEARS

Sent to the Penitentiary.

TAYLORVILLE, Ill., Aug. 28.—

down as he came out of the H. N.
Schuyler State Bank at Pana, Aug.
12, with $13,500 after holding up the institution, pleaded guilty in Circuit Court yesterday before Judge Thomas Jett to a charge of bank robbery and was sentenced to a term of from 10 years to life in the Southern Illinois penitentiary.

Woman Dies of Typhoid.

Mrs. Thomas, Mary Sells, 29 years old, of 1401 North Broadway, died of typhoid at city hospital last night. Her husband, Carl Sells, 28, an expressman, told police, when Mrs. Sells was taken to the hospital Saturday, that he had paid a midwife $50 to perform an operation on his wife three weeks ago. The midwife disappeared yesterday and police were unable to locate Sells.

BOSCH DENIES OWNERSHIP OF PLANT AND FUNDS U. S. SEIZED

Head of Magneto Concern in Germany Says Factory in America Was Property of Heins.
Special to the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—Robert Bosch of Stuttgart, Germany, has denied ownership of the old $16,000,000 plant of the Bosch Magneto Co. at Springfield, Mass., and of the $468,423 seized by the office of the Alien Property Custodian from Otto Heins, in a deposition filed in the District of Columbia Supreme Court yesterday.
The testimony of Bosch was taken at the office of the American consul at Stuttgart and filed in court here by the State Department, on behalf of the present Alien Property Custodian, Colonel Miller.
Otto Heins previously had testified that he surrendered the money, which he said was his personal property, and the plant at Springfield under threat of 10 years imprisonment. He seeks possession of the money and 135 shares of stock of the old Bosch company, the property and business of which was sold by A. Mitchell Palmer, then Alien Property Custodian, to Martin E. Kern of Allentown, Pa., an alien, for $4,125,000.
Suit is now pending in the courts of New York State for the return of the plant, which is now operated by the American Bosch Magneto Co. Heins is operating in New York City the Robert Bosch Magneto Co., which is a licensee of Robert Bosch of Stuttgart.
Bosch, in his deposition, declares
he knew nothing about the seizure of the money claimed by Heins
until the latter visited him in Germany in 1920 and told him about it. He also says that at the outbreak of the World War, he owned only 10 shares of stock in the old Bosch company, which was operated solely and exclusively by Heins, Gustav Klein and Carl Schurz. The Stuttgart plant and the one at Springfield were in no way connected, except that the American plant handled his goods on its own responsibility, he states.

Named Assistant to U. S. Attorney.
Carman A. Newcomb Jr., has received an appointment as special assistant to the United States District Attorney, for not more than one year. A temporary vacancy resulted from the transfer of District Attorney Curry's assistant, Carroll W. Harlan, to the office of John C. Dyott, special assistant attorney-general prosecuting narcotic and liquor cases. Newcomb has his law office with Congressman L. C.

Grocery Collector Held Up.
John La Rowe of Webster
Groves, a Kroger grocery collector, was robbed of $75 yesterday afternoon by two men who accosted him at 2525 Prairie avenue and forced him to drive them in his automobile to Newstead and St. Louis avenues. There they took his money and compelled him to take them to St. Ferdinand and Cora avenues, where they got out, ordering him to drive on.

U. R. OPERATED AT DEFICIT OF $77,859 IN JULY. REPORT SAYS

Perkins Also Asserts 1,700,000
Fewer Passengers Were Carried Than for Same Month in 1923.
The United Railways Co. operated at a deficit of $77,859 for July and carried 1,700,000 fewer passengers than for the same month in 1923. A. T. Perkins, general manager for the receiver, said today.

Revenue for the first seven months of the year will be between $400,000 and $500,000 less than it was for the same period last year, he said.

Perkins attributes the decrease in traffic to bus competition on paying lines, the increased number of automobiles and industrial depression.

USE
CANTHROX
Shampoo
TODAY'S AID TO BEAUTY
We have found that in washing the hair it is never wise to use a makeshift,
but is always advisable to use a preparation made for shampooing only. Many of our friends say they get the best results from a simple homemade canthrox mixture. You can use this at a cost of about three cents a shampoo by getting some canthrox from your druggist and dissolving a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water. This makes enough shampoo liquid to apply to all the hair instead of just the top of the head, as with most preparations. Dandruff, excess oil and dirt are dissolved and entirely disappear in the rinsing water. Your hair will be so fluffy that it will look much heavier than it is. Its luster and softness will also delight you.—Advertisement.

Justice Tamm at Hollister. Privilege of bail was refused.

DESCENDANTS OF LAFAYETTE AND TALLEYRAND MARRIED

Many Americans at Russell-Chambrun Wedding in Paris; Presents Include Valencian Tapestries.

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, Aug. 23.—Miss Martha de Chambrun, daughter of the Deputy, Marquis de Chambrun, the Marquis de Chambrun (nee Margaret Rives Nichols), today became the wife of Don Edmond Russell, son of the former Italian Ambassador to Belgium, Prince de Foggio Suasa Russell. The religious ceremony took place at noon at the Church of St. Pierre du Gras Goutier in the presence of a notable company.

Among those attending the bride
at the altar today were Mrs. Bellamy Storer, Countess de Chambrun (nee Longworth), and Marshal Joffre. The American Embassy was represented by Charge
d'Affaires Sheldon Whitehouse, Mrs. Whitehouse, Col. T. Bentley
Mott, military attaché, and Mrs.
Mott. The ceremony was performed by Bishop Emanuel Chap-tal, who is attached to the household of Cardinal Dubois.

The bride is a descendant of Lafayette and the groom a great-grandnephew of Talleyrand, France's famous diplomat.

Mrs. Storer's gift consisted of the remarkable tapestries which formerly adorned the United States Embassy in Vienna.

Both the bride and bridegroom have an American strain, the bride being the daughter of the late Col. George Ward Nichols, granddaughter, while the bridegroom's grandmother was born a Curia. The bride's father formerly was connected with the French Embassy in Washington and accompanied Marshal Joffre and Premier Viviani on their mission to the United States.

ENDS LONG PUBLICITY STUNT AT WHEEL OF AUTOMOBILE

Downtown Crowds See Finish; Press Agent Says Driver Never Stopped for Five Days.

When W. G. Seeley, a performer of publicity stunts, drove an automobile to the Federal Building at 12:30 o'clock this afternoon, his press agent announced he had been driving continuously around the city and vicinity for five days and nights, his hands chained to the wheel and never sleeping. He had started from that spot last Saturday at noon.

Seeley was more asleep than awake when Chief of Police O'Brien took the handcuffs, which he had locked on last Saturday, from his hands. Seeley was immediately put in an ambulance and taken to a hospital to recuperate.

There was a jam on the Olive street side of the Federal Building to see the finish, and a jam on the streets at luncheon time saw him drive along downtown streets prior to the windup.

Mayor Kiel was a member of the committee which met him, and turned his effort toward helping police clear a way for the driver from the machine to the ambulance.

Seeley's press agent announced a record had been set for nonstop, nonstop drives. Seeley was fed and attended by a nurse, throughout.

GOV. BRYAN SAYS DEFENSE DAY PLAN IS MILITARISTIC

Letters to War Draft Boards in Nebraska Cited as Conflict With President's Stand.

By the Associated Press.
LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 23.—Domestic President Coolidge's interpretation of plans for observance of "Defense day," Sept. 12, as a purely voluntary proposition, Gov. Bryan, Democratic vice-presidential candidate, declared today that the War Department is proceeding with its "militaristic program" for the day.

"The War Department's plan," Gov. Bryan said, "is conflicting and out of harmony with the civil head of the Government, which is supreme. It is attempting to go ahead with its militaristic program, regardless of the fact that the President has said there was no such intention."

The vice-presidential nominee made this statement in connecting on the adoption by the State convention of the American Legion
at Grand Island, Neb., of a resolution approving plans for Defense
day.

"Notwithstanding the President's statement that plans did not call for a mobilization of civilian forces," Gov. Bryan asserted, "the regular army officers of Nebraska have sent a letter to the draft boards that were used during the war, asking them to co-operate in calling on the able-bodied men from 18 to 45 to take part in the mobilization test on Sept. 12."

REQUISITION FOR BANK HOLDUP SUSPECT ISSUED

Madison County (Ill.) Authorities
Want to Question Man Arrested in Arkansas With $1000.

A requisition was issued today
at Springfield, Ill., for the return to Madison County from Jonesboro, Ark., of George Mason, 26 years old, held there for investigation in the $7984 daylight holdup of the Tri-City State Bank of Madison, Ill., on Aug. 11.

Mason had $1000 in currency on his person when arrested at work
by Jonesboro officers on suspicion.
A man with Mason at the time was held by Jonesboro authorities, but requisition for him was not sought.
The Mason requisition may be honored by the Governor of Arkansas
if Mason will not return willingly.
Madison County authorities have not announced what information
they have which might connect Mason with the Madison bank robbery.

BELL'S WEAK PITCHING COSTS CARDINALS OPENING GAME, 5 TO 2

Hornsby Makes Two Singles Out of Three Trips to the Plate

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—Herman Bell failed to retire a batter and the Cardinals lost to the Cubs in the opening game of their double-header here this afternoon.

The score was 5 to 2.
Hafey, a recruit from Houston, reported today, and was in left field for the Cards.
The day was pleasant, and about 5000 persons were on hand.
The game:

FIRST INNING.
CARDINALS—Smith was called out on strikes. Myers bunted safely towards Grantham. Hornsby singled in front of Grigby. Grantham tossed out Bottomley. Hafey out the same way. NO RUNS.

CHICAGO—Adams singled to deep short. Stats bounced a single over Bell's head. Grantham beat out a bunt, filling the bases. Weis tapped to Bell, who threw the ball into left field. Adams and Stats scoring and Grantham reaching third. Bell was replaced by Fowler. Fowler forced Weis. Toporcer to Hornsby. Grantham scoring. Grigby forced Hornsby. Hornsby to Toporcer. Grigby stole second. Hartnett walked. Coffer doubled to left, scoring Grigby and sending Hartnett to third. With Hartnett on third, Coffer tried to steal that base. Hartnett then dashed for the plate, and was out. Gonzalez to Toporcer to Gonzalez. FOUR RUNS.

SECOND INNING.
CARDINALS—Mueller beat out a hit to Adams. Grantham threw out Toporcer. Cough batted for Gonzalez and was out. Aldridge to Coffer. Fowler took a third strike. NO RUNS.

CHICAGO—Niebergall went in to catch for the Cards. Aldridge filed to Mueller. Adams singled to right. Stats walked. Fowler tried to pick Adams off second but made a bad throw. Adams going to third and Stats to second. Grantham fanned. Weis walked, filling the bases. Fowler hit to Myers who threw to Hornsby. Rogers was not on the base, but he relayed the ball to Bottomley, getting Fowler at first. NO RUNS.

THIRD INNING.
CARDINALS—Smith singled to right. Myers bunted to Grantham who tried for a double play, but Coffer fumbled his throw and Smith took second. Hornsby walked. Bottomley forced Hornsby. Grantham to Adams. Hafey forced Bottomley. Adams unscored. NO RUNS.

CHICAGO—Grigby filed to Mueller. Hartnett was hit by a pitched ball. Coffer popped to Niebergall in front of the plate. Aldridge forced Hartnett. Hornsby to Toporcer. NO RUNS.

FOURTH INNING.
CARDINALS—Mueller tried to right center. Toporcer lined to Grantham. Niebergall doubled to left center, scoring Mueller. Fowler lined to Grantham. Niebergall took third on a wild pitch. Smith walked. Myers filed to Grigby. ONE RUN.

CHICAGO—Hornsby tossed out Adams. Stats walked. Hornsby threw out Grantham. Weis singled to right, scoring Stats, but Weis was not trying for second. Smith to Hornsby. ONE RUN.

FIFTH INNING.
CARDINALS—Fowler threw out Hornsby. Bottomley walked. Hafey hit into a double play. Adams to Grantham to Coffer. NO RUNS.

CHICAGO—Bottomley went to the bat and took Fowler's first out on a bunt. Grigby was hit by a pitched ball. Hartnett popped out Hornsby. Coffer filed to Mueller. NO RUNS.

SIXTH INNING.
CARDINALS—Mueller popped to Adams. Toporcer filed to Stats. Fowler threw out Niebergall. NO RUNS.

CHICAGO—Aldridge was easy for Myers and Bottomley. Adams filed to Mueller. Stats filed to Smith. NO RUNS.

SEVENTH INNING.
CARDINALS—Fowler batted for Weis and lined to Grantham. Smith struck out. Myers filed to Grigby. NO RUNS.

CHICAGO—Sherrill went in to catch for the Cards. Grantham fanned to Mueller. So did Weis. Fowler sent Mueller his third fly of the inning. NO RUNS.

EIGHTH INNING.
CARDINALS—Hornsby singled to center. Bottomley singled to right. Hornsby going to second. Adams threw out Slater. Mueller batted a sacrifice fly to Weis, scoring Hornsby. Grantham threw out Toporcer. ONE RUN.

CHICAGO—Grigby walked. Hartnett forced Grigby. Hornsby to Toporcer. Coffer struck to right, sending Hartnett to third. Aldridge popped to Toporcer. Myers threw out Adams. NO RUNS.

NINTH INNING.
CARDINALS—Dyer batted for Niebergall and was out. Grantham to Coffer. Sherrill struck out. Smith bled to Stats. NO RUNS.

Champion Eliminates Former Yale Star With Loss of but Three Games.
By the Associated Press.
FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 28.—William T. Tilden, defending the national tennis crown he has won for the past four years, romped through his second match of the title tournament this afternoon, overwhelming Lucien Williams, of Chicago, former intercollegiate champion, in straight sets in the third round. The scores were 6-3, 6-2, 6-1.

Berlenbach and Stribling Fight Thrilling Battle

Georgian Bleeding at Nose and Mouth but Referee Calls the Bout a Draw.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch. NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—Paul Berlenbach and Young Stribling boxed six sensational rounds in the final bout before the Velodrome Athletic Club and at the final bell the verdict was a draw, which seemed the only fair one in justice to both boys. A crowd of over 600 turned out to see two boys, who, less than a year ago, were known to most of the local fight fans. It was a thrilling battle and it must be said that the brilliant young Georgian failed to duplicate the Astoria knockout artist to quite the extent expected.

As a matter of fact, Paul seemed to have had Stribling in trouble in the fourth and fifth rounds and at the end he was bleeding from the nose and mouth. The Georgian probably never put through a tougher session than he did through the final half of the battle. In the first three seasons it was all Stribling. His amazing footwork had his foe looking foolish and made him miss again and again.

Berlenbach Jars Stribling. But in the fourth came the turn of the tide and it came suddenly. Stribling was sailing along far in front, but when the round was nearly over Paul suddenly got over his vainglorious punch and for a moment it seemed to promise the finish of the sensational Southerner. Stribling had just shown over the other of his fast fists to the best of when, like a flash, Paul countered and scored with a left to the head. Stribling straightened out for a moment as if he had been hit by a bullet and then his knees buckled and it seemed for a moment as though he would fall. However, he came to his senses and Paul charged in to put over the crusher. The youngster ducked under a terrific swing and dashed away to the center of the ring.

Stribling seemed gone too fast as he came back for the fifth, and he had a rough voyage through the first three minutes. Paul forced him all over the ring and had him hanging on by a single inch. He managed to escape a clinch, but before the round was over he was bleeding from the mouth and nose.

Stribling Finishes Strong. In the final round Stribling seemed to have recovered his strength and, while he was not as speedy as in the early rounds, his superior boxing enabled him to hold the aggressive Paul off.

Eddie Burnbrook a welterweight from Camp Holabird, went on with scheduled for 12 rounds. Burns, with something like 47 knockouts out of his half hundred fights, Burnbrook weighed 144 and Kaplan 151½. Patsy Haley refereed this fight.

Kaplan's weight and superior boxing ability told and he was entitled to the verdict, but the loser came in for a bad hand for his gameness and willingness.

Negro Champion Will Not Predict Outcome of Fight

Believes No Fighter Knows Beforehand What Other Fellow Will Do.

WILL DO HIS BEST That Is Not Enough It Will Be Because Luis Is Better Man.

This is the first of a series of articles setting forth the views of HARRY WILLS about his coming fight with Luis Firpo, as told to the representative of the New York Times and Post-Dispatch.

August 28, by the Press and Public Publishing Co., the New York World and the Post-Dispatch. SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y., Aug. 28.—"Usually in stories that I have written by fighters, they have been written by saying something like this: 'I'll win sure. I'll knock this fellow out in a round—or two rounds—or a dozen—' as the case might be. I have to laugh every time I read one of these tales.

I never predict. That is I never predict what I'm going to do in a fight. The reason is that I never know what I'm going to do. I never plan a battle beforehand. The reason for this is simple and plain. You never know what the other fellow is going to do until you get in the ring. Then it's a case of guessing. If you're lucky or more skillful than the other fellow, you'll probably outguess him. And even then accidents are bound to happen in the ring just as they are anywhere else.

"Will Give Best." The only prediction that a really sportsman can make is that he will do his best. Then if he wins, all right, fine. If he loses, even if he loses only one round, well, that's his loss and nobody has a just kick against it.

"No Two Fights Alike." The fact that a man may make a rushing, tearing battle of it in one fight is no guarantee that he will do the same thing in another. Especially is this the case if the fighter has any intelligence. I never fought two fights alike. I don't believe I ever will, because there are no two men in the world exactly alike. Men are not innately machines, therefore they do not fight like machines. A machine, you know, does the same thing over and over.

If a fighter gets tearing wildly and leaves a lot of openings, whether he gets licked or whether he wins, his trainer or manager will point out to him his mistakes. He is intelligent he will realize that himself, even without the advice. He may even see movie pictures of his fight and pick flaws in his own attack or defense. Then he proceeds to rectify them.

I broke my right hand last January in training and I'm not going to take any chance of breaking it again, not in training, anyway. My hands are in fine condition and I hope they will remain so. Barriers accident there is no reason why they shouldn't be good on Sept. 11 as they ever were.

I am in fine all-round condition. I never get far out of shape. I'm a great believer in physical exercise. I don't drink tea or coffee or any wine or other intoxicating stuff. All I drink is milk or water.

But I do smoke a pipe. You know, they say a fellow has to have some vice. I get a great deal of enjoyment out of a pipe and my leisure hours. I even smoke but while training.

Practice for Training Camp. My camp is pitched in an ideal spot. This is one of the greatest places to train that I have ever known. The air out here is

JOE AND ASBESTOS—Well Anyway They're Game

WRAY'S COLUMN

The Shame of St. Louis. WASHINGTON, the butt of tail-end baseball jokes for many years, is now threatened with a pennant.

For Washington's sake, we hope Clark Griffith wins, but for the sake of St. Louis we fear lest the cloak be at last dragged from the Mound City's shame. For, if Washington wins a pennant, St. Louis will be pointed out as the only city that has not won a major-league pennant since the reorganization of the baseball world 55 years and more ago.

St. Louis never has won a National or an American League pennant and the chance of its landing one has dwindled to nothing, for the present campaign. It is even doubtful if one of our teams can finish "in the money."

What's the reason? It's quite possible to make any one of several persons or circumstances the goat of this failure. In fact, we can blame everybody, from the managers to the owners; but one can't blame the St. Louis fans who, as the years roll around, have kept the home fires flickering in the box office, when other cities were giving their failures the raspberry.

Pull for Walter. UNITED STATES, excepting the Province of New York, is hoping that Washington wins. It wants to see Walter Johnson get into a world's series before his good right arm checks out.

Johnson, who has won 114 games and pitched 1,144 innings, has been the Senators' Johnson and the fans had surrendered resignedly to the thought that Walter would never be seen in a world's series game. With the approach of the setting of Johnson's sun, his chance has come. As if he sensed the opportunity, Walter, whose arm has long been a mystery, has regained all its "fireball" speed and is buzzing the horsehide by the batters as in the halcyon days of nearly a score of years ago.

It took Johnson 14 rounds to stop this "cheese" champion! Then Jack defeated Jeffries, who had been out of the ring for six years and was a mere bluff of his former self.

Thereafter he ran from every fighter of merit of his own or the white race until he thought he had a clinch with that giant tyro, Jess Willard. Although he hit Willard with everything he had for 15 rounds, he could not dent him and lost his crown to a fighter who had no claim to greatness, brilliance or even punch.

Dempsey is "There." DEMPSEY, on the other hand, is a finisher. He ran through his list of rivals with the greatest ease and made Willard seem the tyro that he is. He fought like a fighter against them all and ran from nobody. In speed, in punch and even skill Dempsey ranks with the best. He looks above even Bob Fitzsimmons, the mightiest man of his pounds in any day.

FITCH AND MEYERS TO REPRESENT C. A. A. U. CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—Horatio Fitch, who finished second in the 460-meter run, in the Olympic games, and Laddie Meyers, Central A. A. U. pole vault title holder, will be the only representatives of the C. A. A. U. in the national outdoor track and field championships at West Orange, N. J., Sept. 5 and 6. It has been announced.

Horseshoe Tournay Sunday. The second annual horseshoe tournament for the championship of St. Louis County will be held Sunday morning at the St. Louis County Fair at Upper Crave Court Lake. The national horseshoe rules will govern play. All games will be of 30 points. The entry fee is $1. Entries must be made before 8 o'clock Sunday on the grounds of the Fair Association. The tournament is open to players of St. Louis and St. Louis County.

Eight Amateur Wrestlers Gain Judges' Decision Over Opponents at Battery A.

Only three of the 11 amateur wrestling matches held last night at Battery A under the auspices of the National A. A. and Business Men's A. C. resulted in falls. Eight were decided by judges' decisions. The feature match of the evening came in the featherweight class, in which Silent Ratland gained the verdict over Remo Muehlin in seven minutes. Al King and Henry Richter were the winners in the heavyweight contests.

George Costa, Bob Frieman and Kenneth Corcoran were the winners in the middleweight contests. The results: 112-POUND CLASS—Jimmy Kerns defeated Mike Rampant, 7 minutes, judges' decision. 118-POUND CLASS—George Costa defeated George Lannanoff, by a fall in 5:55 seconds. 125-POUND CLASS—Henry Richter defeated Silent Ratland, 7 minutes, judges' decision. 135-POUND CLASS—Fred Smith defeated Bob Frieman, 7 minutes, judges' decision. 145-POUND CLASS—Henry Richter defeated Silent Ratland, 7 minutes, judges' decision. 155-POUND CLASS—Remo Muehlin, 7 minutes, judges' decision. 165-POUND CLASS—Kenneth Corcoran defeated Silent Ratland, 7 minutes, judges' decision. 175-POUND CLASS—Al King defeated Silent Ratland, 7 minutes, judges' decision. 185-POUND CLASS—Henry Richter defeated Silent Ratland, 7 minutes, judges' decision. 195-POUND CLASS—Henry Richter defeated Silent Ratland, 7 minutes, judges' decision. 205-POUND CLASS—Henry Richter defeated Silent Ratland, 7 minutes, judges' decision.

Glide Sets New Record. By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—Glide, 2-year-old filly, was sold by Harned brothers and Jones to G. C. Cudahy of Chicago for $25,000 just before the fourth race at Hawthorne yesterday, when she won the race in 1:14.4 seconds, a rate of 124.7 miles per hour. The record was made in the tenth of a stride.

Antberg's mark was said by officials to be the highest ever set by a 122 class horse. The placement motor on anything but a straightaway, Jimmy Murphy and Tommy Patton took the lead in the speed two years ago with the 122 class machine, but their record for pace was not official.

Epimard Fit and Ready for First Big Test Monday

French Horse Will Have His Final Speed Trial Tomorrow Morning.

By G. F. T. Ryall Of the New York World Sports Staff.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—Epimard arrived at Belmont Park shortly before noon, yesterday, after a 14-hour trip from Saratoga, Springs. Apparently no whit the worse for the journey, the big chestnut stepped out on the track, where he will run six furlongs against the best sprinters in training in the first of the series of specials on Monday, as much at home as if he were back in France.

Epimard can run the way he ships it, will take a mighty good horse to beat him. According to the groom who made the trip with Epimard, everything went smoothly during the run down from the stall and tried to make friends with the train crew, who came down to have a look at the distinguished passenger.

Last Workout Tomorrow. Gene Smith will give Epimard his final PAST workout tomorrow morning and a gallop on Sunday. Pierre Wertheimer, owner of Epimard, will be on hand to see the final work, as he is coming here on the Berengaria, which will arrive tomorrow.

The going at Belmont Park was to muddy from the heavy rain on Tuesday, but a number of horses were out on the track. One of these which worked was Wise Counselor, which shared with Epimard the honors in the 2-year-old division last year. He, too, is after Epimard and has been prepared for the last fortnight for the special. Wise Counselor worked by a margin of 1½ of a good move, considering that he does not like the muddy going.

By Leonard White from the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted financial review today, says:

The principal feature of the day's trading in both stocks and bonds was dullness. In the absence of news or developments to stimulate activity and with the holiday drawing near, the market settled back further into the lethargy. Despite dullness, however, aside from heavy selling of specialties, the tone was fairly steady and there was some evidence that the recent top-heavy condition has been largely corrected. At the close the main body of stocks was irregularly lower. Bonds, though dull, were firm. The total stock turnover was but slightly over 100,000 shares, or only about half that of the average for recent weeks. Call money continued at 2 per cent.

Exchange is irregular. "After some reaction in the early trading sterling and French francs rallied moderately and held fairly steady. Business was transacted in moderate volume and offerings and demand were well balanced. Sterling sagged to 14.48 in response to the early movement at London, but later at 14.45% it was only 1/2 of a cent below the previous close. French francs dropped one point and then sold up to 5.44 cents, unchanged from yesterday. Other European currencies were irregularly higher, while the so-called silver exchanges were firm despite a low quotation for silver. Canadian dollars were quoted at our small dealers in several instances were obliged to pay a slight premium. While the news from Berlin at times is somewhat discouraging, few now doubt but that Germany will sign the London agreement. Whether the Dawes plan will be fully carried out later is, of course, another matter. At any rate, the present French government seems determined to carry out the fiscal reform program inaugurated last spring and is now making a real attempt to balance the next budget. This should go far toward stabilizing the franc.

Carloadings for the week ended Aug. 18 increased 10,490 over the previous week, all commodities except the coal and are showing gains. So far as can be estimated from the earnings statements for July now at hand, the carriers likely will show nearly 4.38 per cent earned on property valuation as compared with 4.65 per cent in June and 4.53 per cent in July, 1933. When it is remembered that last year was an unusually good one, the showing may be regarded as favorable. The situation in both rubber and copper gives promise of higher prices in the autumn, while sugar is showing a firmer tone. Sentiment in the motor industry is more cheerful, but mergers are becoming more audible. Oil is still depressed, with production on the increase. Some drawing optimistic conclusions from the action of one or two companies to discontinue production, but this method of curtailing output never was successful. Price cutting is the only really effective remedy for the disease of overproduction.

French Bank Statement. "Despite further improvement in the money market, the condition of the Bank of France, which reflects to a certain extent the condition of State finances. During the past week, the State was able to repay the bank an additional 100,000,000 francs. At the same time notes in circulation decreased 115,463,000 francs so that now circulation stands nearly 1,200,000,000 francs below the legal limit of 41,000,000,000 francs. Reports which have been published on French trade during the first six months show a substantial recovery as compared with 1933, but there is reason to believe that since the turn of the half year, the early gains have not been fully held. Only moderate changes are shown by the statement of the Bank of England despite a firmer tone in the money market and some borrowing at the bank. With the disbursement of some £20,000,000 on Government interest on Sept. 1, observers look for the current stringency to disappear. The bank's reserve ratio has advanced from 14.57 per cent last week to 15.53 per cent."

SINCLAIR APPEAL ALLOWED

Special Hearing Granted in Senate Contempt Case.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—The District of Columbia Court of Appeals today allowed a motion by attorneys for Harry F. Sinclair for a special appeal from an order by the District Supreme Court overruling Sinclair's demurrer to an indictment charging contempt of the Senate by his refusal to answer questions of the Senate Committee.

FRANCO-GERMAN TREATY SIGNED

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Aug. 23.—The first Franco-German commercial agreement to be concluded since the war was signed yesterday. It regulates the sale of Franco-German potash to America. The potash producers of Germany and France, instead of competing, agreed to divide the sales. France supplying 37½ and Germany 62½ per cent. The agreement runs for two years and is based on the price of $27 per ton for the product. The Hague arbitration court is to settle divergencies that may arise on the subject between the two countries. The Alsace Potash Co. took a leading part in concluding the agreement. Le Matin announces that it expects the potash pact will be followed by an agreement between producers on each side of the Rhine regarding iron and metals.

IDaho DEMOCRATS ASSAIL KLAN

By the Associated Press.

TWIN FALLS, Idaho, Aug. 23.—Idaho Democrats wound up their State convention last night with the adoption of a platform containing a plank which named the Ku Klux Klan and condemned it, and another indorsing remarks of John W. Davis, the Democratic presidential nominee, in regard to the Klan. Frank Martin of Boise was nominated for the United States Senate and A. L. Freehafer of Payette for the governorship.

A TURN IN EVENTS.—CHAPTER 28.

CORA FORESTER looked inquiringly at Marjorie standing defiantly before her, slim hands clenched, eyes flashing fire.

"What is it? Have I said something to anger you?"

"No. You have made me see the truth. You have made me see myself as I am, as other people who know, or suspect, must see me. A parasite, a mollusk, a weak, spineless, jellyfish sort of person, with out sufficient pride to tell my family to go—to the devil. That's what I am! I've known it all along. I've felt it and been ready to die of shame. But I never heard it put into words before, and it's like a lash to a pride that I'd begun to think was dead."

She flung up her head suddenly.

"It's all over now! I'm going home and tell mother that she and Dan will have to accept poverty, or find some other means of getting money. I'm through selling my self-respect to buy up all luxuries."

"That means," prompted Mrs. Forester softly, "that you will marry my nephew?"

"Yes—if he still wants me when he knows the truth."

"Oh, he'll want you all right. He's clean off his head about you."

Mrs. Forester rose and went up to Marjorie and took the young face in her cool palms.

"I only pray that he makes you happy," she said slowly. "I'm a little afraid of my instinct now—I could have sworn once that you'd love Reed Hollister and be happy with him. Ah well—"

She went back to the fire.

"Run and break the news to your mother; and if Charlotte gets too cantankerous, phone me and I'll try my soothing hand."

Marjorie ran lightly across the snow-covered lawn that separated Mrs. Forester's house from Soundview. Her heart was beating high with the thought of freedom. After all these intolerable months, she would at last be able to hold up her head again. It wasn't so much the thought that her freedom would make possible her marriage to Tom Grosvenor, as the realization that she would be once and for all relieved of the hateful burden of Hollister's generosity.

She was a little dashed when Hutchins informed her that Mrs. Bolce-Nevins was in town and had phoned that she would remain the night with friends at the Ritz. That meant that the inevitable battle would have to be postponed until morning. It was disappointing.

"Mrs. Barclay is in the library," Hutchins added. "She asked that I tell you as soon as you came in."

Marjorie raised surprised brows. There was a dinner dance at the club that night. By rights Julie should have been at home dressing at this hour.

"Hello, Julie!" she greeted her sister in the twilight of the library. "Anything the matter with the lights that you're mooning like this in the dusk?"

There was a harsh note she had never heard before in Julie's short laugh. When she snapped on the lights she revealed her sister standing by the mantel, strikingly gowned, with a flaming bit of color in each cheek, and a queer, bright, unnatural light in her eyes.

"Nothing the matter with the lights, as you see," said Julie. "I was just sitting here reaching a decision," she straightened her shoulders. "Well, I've made it."

"Decisions seem to be running in the family this evening," laughed Marjorie, jerking off her hat and tossing it on the table.

"There's a positive epidemic of them. Suppose you tell me yours and then I'll tell you mine. By rights, mother ought to know first, but—she made a gesture of invitation and perched on the arm of a chair.

"Noria went under this afternoon," announced Julie abruptly. "You don't mean—I?" gasped Marjorie.

"Wiped out!" supplemented Julie curtly. "Oh, I know it would happen, but not so soon. He's been dancing on the edge of destruction for months, the fool. If he'd listened to advice—"

She clenched her hands and turned away abruptly.

"Oh, Julie, I'm so sorry," breathed Marjorie. "So very, very sorry. Poor Norrie! Where is he?"

"How should I know?" snapped

Julie. "As if I cared, anyway."

Marjorie went to her and slipped her arms about her tenderly.

"You're upset, dear. Come up to my room and lie down and I'll have Hutchins fix you up a bit of brandy."

"Go away!" Julie shook her off rudely. "I don't want you weeping over me. Besides, don't you see, I'm dressed to dine out."

Marjorie's eyes widened incredulously.

"You're not going to the dinner dance, you and Norrie?"

Vividly, she recalled the night of her father's failure, when Mrs. Bolce-Nevins had marshalled the family together and gone off to a party just to show the world that they weren't beaten.

"Certainly not," Julie answered shortly. "I told you I don't even know where Norrie is. We had a scene this afternoon after the market closed. He came home like a whipped cur. I told him just where we stood and he went tearing off somewhere."

Fear gripped Marjorie. She recalled what her father had said about failures who had the courage to blow out their brains. Suppose Norrie—she voiced her fear to Julie hesitantly.

"I wish he would," declared Julie with a curt laugh. "It would save me a lot of trouble—for I'm going to divorce him."

A Trifle Warm for Fall Fashions but Here Are Three of Them

Paris is swinging the cycle of style gradually again to the moulded figure, as evidenced in this latest importation. The snug bodice is in line with the Directoire influence, while the insertion of circular cut pleat achieves an interesting fullness draping over and from the hips in graceful folds.

A matching evening gown and wrap of metal brocade, the gown embroidered all over with colored beads to harmonize with the burnt orange velvet lining of the wrap and both garments trimmed with fitch fur.

A modish little wrap, its long silken stripes separated by bands of dusky-toned mohair in corduroy texture, the wrap achieves an interesting swinging flare with every step.

HOME-MAKING HELPS

"Everything About the House Helps to Make the Home"

By WANDA BARTON

How to Give a Finely Interesting "Ladies' Party" on Labor Day.

A TRADES PARTY should give the hostess, as well as her guests, food for thought.

The invitations should be written on ragged parchment paper and tucked into brown craft-paper envelopes. They may contain this message: "Please select the cap, apron or other badge of their callings worn by workmen in different trades and upon arrival, give your hostess a card containing your name and a description of the costume you are wearing. This is done for the convenience of the judges of the costumes, who award the prizes."

Of course, the fun lies in selecting costumes that are unfamiliar. They may be made as elaborate as the wearer desires. The chef's cap and apron, the butcher's apron, the sheepskin apron of the blacksmith, the coarse blue smock and cap of the soap-fat man, the carpenter's apron of ticking, the green bairn apron of the jewelry cleaner, the leather apron and parchment cap of the bookbinder, the milkmaid's apron, mob-cap and pail, the motorman's jumper and cap, any favorite tradesman's garb, since they have joined the union—all will be permissible, and if well chosen, may be the means of adding comedy to the scene. These suggestions are jotted down for the benefit of those who are not familiar with various badges of servitude.

After the costumes have been judged for prizes, they can be laid aside if desired, or may be worn throughout the evening. The "borders" fern and march around the room past the judges' stand. While they are awaiting the decision of that august body, they may be entertained by outside or local talent, with dancing or music. After the awards have been made, the regular dancing may begin. If the hostess has so arranged, a few old-fashioned dances may be given. A chilled fruit punch will be acceptable to the dancers and should be placed where they may help themselves and each other.

Refreshments are always of interest. If the guests are seated the appointments of the table must be simple like the trades. This does not, however, bar the artistic use of color in decoration. The table may be covered with mandarin blue linen or paper for that matter and set with wooden serviceplates simply decorated or plain. In the center of the table place an oblong yard with modern factory buildings made of paper-mache, wee flower beds, walks, drives and trees, coal piles and other signs of activity such as may belong to a factory of that particular type.

Models of this sort are easy to procure, though there is usually some big brother or husband who would like nothing better than to plan just such a toy centerpiece. If this idea is too elaborate, a rustic basket may be used filled with flowers or fruit, or a hollow paper log may be flower-filled.

If paper napkins are used, get large ones having hemstitched borders, as they are a greater protection. Of course, individual service should prevail. Everything that is baked should be cooked in little brown pottery dishes, casseroles with and without handles, and brown ramkins. All liquids should be served from brown pottery pitchers that match the dishes. Iced tea or coffee should be served followed by pitchers of whipped cream and a fruit cup.

For this fete we suggest an old-fashioned, hot supper, which always finds favor with men and usually with women. This may consist of a chowder of some sort, hot scalloped oysters, hot chicken pie, hot baked ham, hot rolls, macaroni au gratin, hot creamed potatoes, pickles, jelly and celery. Hot waffles served with butter, honey and whipped cream may follow, or a wee flower beds, walks, drives and trees, coal piles and other signs of activity such as may belong to a factory of that particular type.

This supper is not nearly as elaborate as it sounds, for the chicken pie and scalloped oysters are made in individual dishes, as is also the macaroni, while the potatoes are parmed and the ham is sliced to serve on each plate.

Before cutting rich cheese, immerse the knife in boiling water and you will be able to cut slices without breaking or crumbling.

FAMOUS WOMEN

THE curious collection of wax figures exhibited in London by Mme. Tussaud are famed all over the world. Mme. Tussaud, of course, has been dead for over a century. She lived among some of the famous characters of the French Revolution and framed their portraits from direct observation. It was her business one day to model the horrible countenance of the assassinated Marat, whom she detested, and on another to reproduce the features of Charlotte Corday, the beautiful assassin, whom she loved and admired. At one time she was herself in prison and in danger of the all-devouring guillotine. She escaped from France and took her stock of wax figures with her.

Hollandaise Sauce.

Real Hollandaise sauce is a veritable mayonnaise in which the oil is replaced by butter, which should be the freshest possible.

Put into a small receptacle the yolks of three eggs, hard-boiled, crush and add a pinch of fine salt, pepper and one or two teaspoonfuls of water. Put this into a double-boiler and add small pieces of butter until there is sufficient quantity, stirring well all the while.

If the dressing should be too thin, incorporate one or two spoonfuls of good white sauce.

WHERE MEN WHIRL

THROUGH Mohammedanism is firmly established in Turkey, there is another religion that is practiced and enjoys great popularity among the people of Turkey. This cult is known as the Servishah, but in their own country they are called Mevlites.

The order was founded early in the fourteenth century by a young man named Jelali'din, whose teachings still remain in the country decorated anteroom of the mosque, or tomb, that was built in the thirteenth century ago and where the founder's fathers are buried.

Jelali'din has obtained a firm hold in Turkey, and already has over 300,000 followers.

These taking part in any of the dances, the dervishes visit the tomb of Jelali'din. They profess themselves before his sarcophagus in order to obtain the necessary spiritual inspiration, which is obliged to possess before they can hope to carry out their religious program.

The violent physical exertion to which the Mevlites subject themselves when performing the ceremony is amazing. It is remarkable that they are able to perform their religious rites twice a week, enduring the terrific physical strain of the undertone.

The purpose of the cult is to seek ecstatic rapture in dancing to the sound of drums and flutes. The preparation for the ceremony is to fast for 24 hours. The dervishes are dressed in white robes and have their heads shaved except for a small patch on the back of the head.

The ceremony is performed in a large hall, and the dervishes are arranged in a circle around the tomb of Jelali'din. They perform a series of dances, each with its own meaning, and the ceremony ends with a prayer for the souls of the dead.

The ceremony is a very important part of the life of the Mevlites, and it is a privilege for a dervish to perform it. The ceremony is a very important part of the life of the Mevlites, and it is a privilege for a dervish to perform it.

WHERE MEN WHIRL TO PRAY.

MOHAMMEDANISM is established in Turkey, and is another religion that is practiced and enjoys great popularity among the people of this country. This cult is known as the Mevlana, but in their own country they are called Mevlana.

The Mevlana was founded early in the thirteenth century by a young man named Jelaluddin, whose name still remains in the Mevlana, and then the Mevlana started playing.

The Mevlana then told their arms and turn slowly in time to the music, which is a weird and monotonous melody. With each turn they gather speed, and as they acquire momentum, they spread their arms and continue spinning, until they look like human tops.

These strange gyrations are kept up until the music stops, and the Mevlana—if they have not already dropped from exhaustion—cease whirling and file out again.

The peculiar whirling movements are supposed to produce a feeling of religious ecstasy in the Mevlana. True, it is a remarkable performance, but it is difficult for us to understand just what ecstasy may be derived from whirling one's self around like a top, in a frenzy of religious excitement, until one drops exhausted to the ground.

Preparations for the ceremony are interesting. The dancers file in singly and take their places, forming a circle in the center of the floor. For about 10 minutes they chant hymns and prayers, and then the Mevlana start playing.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

It Means More Jelly.

Dip the jelly bags into boiling water and then wring them dry before pouring the jelly syrup through them. It will prevent the juice from sinking into the cloth.

Silk Garments.

Never sprinkle silk underwear and dresses, but iron them before they have dried. Sprinkling is very apt to give them a spotted appearance.

To Remove Salt.

A few slices of raw potato will take the salt out of the too-salty soup. Boil for a few minutes and then remove the potatoes. Repeat if necessary.

Frills and Fancies.

When using material for a frill, measure the length required and then add half as much again. This will make a nice frill, neither skimpy nor too full.

The Neglected Strainer.

Sink strainers should be emptied frequently and washed after each meal with the pots and pans. Neglected strainers are attractive to both mice and roaches besides giving the kitchen an unpleasant odor.

MEDITATIONS OF A MARRIED WOMAN

By HELEN ROWLAND

SYMPATHY doesn't do a weeping woman much good if she can't find her powder puff.

Eternal love, perpetual motion and a permanent wave would be the most wonderful things in the world—if only they were eternal, perpetual and permanent.

It is a simple thing for a woman to find out how much her husband really appreciates and admires her. All she has to do is to lie down and die—and the flowers and compliments will come at last.

A man never decides what he wants most for dinner until he finds out what you haven't got—and he never decides which girl he wants most to marry until he finds out which one he can't get.

The happiest marriages in the world are made in France, they say—and so are some of the happiest divorces, according to recent statistics.

Of course, a man is more consistent than a woman—and yet he will talk brilliantly all evening on "efficiency" and then forget to wind the clock until after he has put out all the lights.

A girl may be sensible enough to believe only half that a woman charmer says—but somehow she always chooses the half that he didn't really mean.

At this dangerous season a cautious bachelor tiptoes through life, with his impulses wrapped up in mothballs and his heart hermetically sealed.

So uncanny are a wife's intuitions that a man can't even announce that he's going on a reducing diet without seeing the faint glow of suspicion in her eyes and being aware that she is wondering if his new stenographer is a blonde.

No use asking a woman to be logical or a man to be reasonable until after their love is dead.

Almost every woman wonders what some other woman "saw in that man."

FASHION FRILLS

NEW YORK—Lingerie in the new pansy purple is especially beautiful when made of georgette. This shade of purple is becoming usually to brunettes as well as to blondes, and is effective when trimmed with lace dyed orchid, pale green, or maize.

NEW YORK—Among the woolen top coats for early autumn shown here today those in soft shades of brick red and of rose are notable. Sometimes these shades have fur quality dyed to match; even green fur is seen.

NEW YORK—Many and varied are the hosiery shades permissible for street wear now. Those most favored include peach blow, pear, rose ashes, tanbark, silver and skyn.

LONDON—An American Indian effect is given by some of the latest fringed dresses. The dresses, which are short, often have two flounces of fringe in different shades.

LONDON—White organdie with black satin is a fanciful combination at present. The modish black satin frock has a high plaited ruff of the organdie.

Children's Bedtime Story

By Thornton W. Burgess

Meanness Doesn't Pay

Since time began, unto this day, No meanness ever was known to pay.

SOMETIMES meanness may seem to pay, but in the end it never does. No, sir, in the end it never does. The one who does a meanness may for a while think it pays, but sooner or later he will find that it doesn't pay. It was meanness, nothing but pure meanness that had led Reddy Fox to try to get Buster Bear driven out of the Old Pasture. There was no reason for it whatever.

For two days after he had been so badly stung by the wasps Reddy Fox had remained in his house. He had felt too miserable to go out. He had had time to do a lot of thinking. At first he had wished with all his might that he hadn't thought of getting Buster Bear into trouble with those wasps. But as he began to get better he changed that wish a little. Instead of wishing that he hadn't got Buster into trouble, he wished that he himself had had sense enough to keep far enough away from the scene of trouble to have avoided getting into trouble himself.

By the time Reddy was able to go out again he had stopped wishing. Now that his own aches and pains were over, he tried to make himself believe that after all his meanness had paid. "It was my own fault that I got stung," thought Reddy. "Yes, sir, it was my own fault. Another time I wouldn't get stung. But anyway I did what I wanted to do; I got Buster Bear driven out of the Old Pasture. I guess it will be a long time before he returns. It was a smart trick I played if I do say it. Buster hasn't the slightest idea that I had anything to do with it. I guess now he will stay in the Green Forest where he belongs."

These thoughts were very pleasant to Reddy as he trotted along an old cow path through the bushes of the Old Pasture. He was proud of his own smartness. He was quite puffed up with pride. It was foolish pride. Yes, sir, it was foolish pride. Just how foolish it was Reddy discovered a few minutes later. He was trotting along, still thinking how smart he had been, when his keen ears heard a sound off at one side of the old path that caused him to stop abruptly. He cocked his head on one side with his two, sharp, black ears pricked up. Such a queer expression as swept over Reddy's face as he listened to those sounds. They were familiar. They were familiar.

Softly, carefully Reddy crept through the bushes toward those sounds. At last he could see the cause of them. Sitting up and stripping big, delicious looking blueberries from a tall bush was Buster Bear. He was a picture of happiness and contentment. He was grunting and whining with pleasure. He appeared to be forgotten that there were any little people with stings like red-hot needles.

The truth is, Buster Bear had not suffered from the stings he had received nearly as much as Reddy Fox had suffered. Buster's skin is thick and tough. Besides, he was used to stings. More than once for the sake of honey he had stood all the stinging that Honey Bee and her friends could give him.

Reddy Fox sneaked away, yes, sir, he actually sneaked away. He had suffered the pain of all those stings for nothing. Buster Bear was back in the Old Pasture. Meanness never pays. Reddy knew it even if he wouldn't admit it.

Hot Prune Soup. Soak a half pound of large prunes overnight, after thoroughly washing them, then stew them without adding sugar. Cool the fruit, remove the stones and chop fine. Soak a half cupful of sage in enough water to cover it, for one hour, then add a quart of cold water and cook in a double boiler until transparent. Add a saltspoonful of salt, the cooked fruit, a cupful of orange juice and sweeten to taste. Serve hot with toasted croutons.

Two cupfuls canned tuna fish, one cupful cold boiled rice, 1/4 cupful milk, one teaspoonful salt, 1/4 teaspoonful paprika, few grains nutmeg, two eggs, 1/4 cupful dry crumbs, one tablespoonful butter, one and one-half cupfuls medium white sauce, 1/4 teaspoonful lemon juice. Turn the tuna fish into a strainer and pour cold water quickly over it to remove oil. Combine with other ingredients, shape into loaf, put into greased pan and bake in moderate oven.

Beat whites five eggs with pinch salt and then beat yolks of the eggs with pinch pepper and five tablespoonfuls milk. Have spider well-greased and very hot. Combine beaten yolks and whites, folding together lightly and pour into hot spider immediately, turning fire very low and cooking slowly. Fold and serve hot.

The Man on the Sandbox

by L. C. Davis

THE HALCYON DAYS.

O H, do you remember the days when the bunch would gather in front of the bar and eat 40 cents' worth of Harry's free lunch after buying a beer or cigar? The halcyon days, the hectic nights, have gone to come no more; the cockroach and the spider fight upon the barroom floor. The rail of brass is gone, alas! Likewise the sparkling wine; but we are told real beer is sold at 50 cents per stein.

TOUGH LUCK.

The Browns jumped all the way from Philadelphia to Cleveland to get trimmed. The shops in Philadelphia don't open on Sunday.

The Indians, who have no scruples about lifting scalps on the Sabbath, accommodated them.

OLD STUFF.

London bridge is said to be falling down. We've been hearing that ever since we were born and don't place any too much credence in the story.

Tom Gibbons went to England in search of the golden fleece and got wrecked. Such are the fortunes of war.

John McGraw has been swinging the ax on some of his employees who have been making detours from the straight and narrow. Johnny intimates that the only place for bad actors is in the movies.

"Bavaria Holds Beer Drinking Championship." The loser pays for the beer, we take it.

"Italy Approves Liquor Treaty With America."

The moon shines bright on Dago Hill. And all is still and all is still.

Inasmuch as the eighteenth amendment takes the "treat" out of treaty, it doesn't mean anything.

See where Lieut. Smith and Nelson broke the world's broad jump record.

CAMPAIGN SLOGANS.

"Day Dawns with Davis." And rights for the masses. Graft ends with the reign of the privileged classes. —Jeff Mackay.

"Day Dawns with Davis." An inference subtle; But slogans won't save us. We claim in rebuttal.

"Standards Repeal Moors." Are those boys at it again?

See where the sap-bucket of 1924 is battling for the full dinner pail of 1896. History may repeat itself if the saps fall for the sap-bucket.

THE THOUGHTFUL BRIDEGROOM.

THE last idea couple had just been made one. He was a promising member of the Pearl Button Kid's gang. She was one of the belles of the Avenue C peacocks. As the pair came forth from under the marriage canopy, the bridegroom, with the air of having just remembered something of importance, halted the beginning of the march to the nearby hall where the wedding reception was to take place. He swung his bride about so that she faced him. She stood with her lips puckered expectantly. But he did not kiss her. He halted off, this foreboding husband, and dealt her a resounding wallop upon the point of the nose. "That's for nothin'. Now be careful!"

JUDGE BEGINS TASK OF FIXING FATE OF LEOPOLD AND LOEB

In Seclusion of Private Home Near Chicago, He Will Consider Penalty for Next 12 Days.

COST OF CASE MORE THAN $350,000

Leopold, Joking About Being Hanged, Says He Will Have Jazz Band and Plenty of Hard Punch.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Aug. 23.—In the retirement he will maintain for the next 12 days, Judge John R. Caverly today began consideration of the sentence he will impose Sept. 10 on Nathan Leopold Jr. and Richard Loeb, co-accused kidnapers and slayers of 14-year-old Robert Frank.

He had before him the nearly 1000-page record of the 22 days of testimony and argument in the judicial hearing which closed yesterday, in which the state demanded the death penalty, and the defense pleaded for imprisonment, offering a theory of "mental sickness" in mitigation.

Goes to Private Home.
In a private home within 100 miles of Chicago, the jurist, occupying a dual role of judge and jury, will weigh the evidence and prepare a written opinion, explaining the reasons for the sentence he will pronounce.

Judge Caverly, after hearing the second case against the youths, the kidnapping charges, announced he would render judgment in both the murder and kidnapping cases at the same time.

Both crimes are punishable by death, with a minimum penalty of one year in prison for kidnapping, for ransom, and 15 years for murder.

In the judgment of the Court, death, defense attorneys may ask for a new hearing on the ground that the defendants have become insane since the first hearing and sentence.

Would Prevent Demonstration.
Before he left the bench, Judge Caverly announced he would admit only the defendants, their relatives and counsel, the state's attorneys and newspaper men to his courtroom when he fixes the fate of the youths. Extra guards of policemen and deputies will bar all others. The precautions were taken, he said, not because of threatening letters he has received, which he attributed to cranky fanatics, but to prevent any demonstration.

He has requested other judges in the Criminal Courts building to delay convening the courts until after the judgment has been passed. In the closing moments of the hearing yesterday, Judge Caverly delivered stricken from the record his remarks made by Robert H. Brown, State's Attorney, in place of his final summing-up argument and also to task those who criticized the court and "delays of justice."

Remarks Made by Court.
The prosecutor's remarks dealt with an alleged statement by Leopold, in which the slayer expressed the hope of escaping. He noted "by pleading guilty before a friendly judge." Crowe declared the conduct of the defendants and their attorneys indicated that "Mr. Leopold did not see he would plead guilty before a friendly judge, his actions have demonstrated he knows he has one."
